SUMMARY OF INDUSTRY IN WHICH THE COMPANY IS OPERATING

Carbon credit represents ownership of the equivalent of one metric ton of carbon dioxide that can be traded, sold or retired. If an organization is regulated under a cap-and-trade system (e.g., the California Cap and Trade Program) it likely has an allowance of credits it can use towards its cap. If the organization produces fewer tons of carbon emissions than it is allocated, the organization can trade, sell or hold the remaining carbon credits. When a credit is sold, the buyer is purchasing the seller's allowance of emissions. A credit becomes tradeable because of a very real reduction in emissions.

1. Exploitation of weak regulations to commit financial crimes.

The current methods of regulating carbon markets are vulnerable to manipulation. The complexity of carbon markets makes them particularly difficult to regulate. Lack of legal regulation, together with the lack of any tangible asset behind the traded carbon credits makes this market perhaps even easier to manipulate. While the regulation and oversight of the carbon markets remain at an immature stage, the rapid growth of investment makes them vulnerable to exploitation. In more cases than not, the sellers and buyers are unaware of each other and the irregularities in appropriate disclosure can give advantage of arbitration trading, misstatement of transactions, fraud due to legal loopholes or inconsistent regulations between different national legislation. Law enforcement and regulators are often limited in their ability to work outside their own domestic legal jurisdiction, making enforcement of international carbon markets complicated and difficult without a proper global enforcement response. Further, any inconsistency between the licensing rules for carbon traders or between the regulations across different jurisdictions These difficulties pose an unforeseen risk of transparency at the end of the holder and the trader, therefore the weak or non-existent regulations for trading and transfer and disclosure norms is likely to affect our business operations and may impose financial obligations/penalties on our company, which may or may not be caused solely on our company's working.

At present, the Carbon credits are being traded in Compulsory regime as well as in voluntary market. In compulsory regime though the market has certain guidelines of each country under its local laws, but the trading in voluntary markets is not under regulated regime in India. Whenever any regulations/laws will be made and implemented for regulating trading in carbon credits in voluntary markets, the same may or may not be favorable to our business. Our business may be impacted which may or may not be good for us while it transits to regulated regime in comparison to the present scenario, as our Company's major business segment is of trading in carbon credits in voluntary markets only. Accordingly, such change in legal position of our business in trading of carbon credits may have adverse effect on our results of operations and our overall financial position.

- 2. The demand for our services is, to a large extent, dependent on focus of organizations towards carbon neutrality and achieving low carbon and climate resilient global economy. In absence of any mandatory regulations in India for adoption of same, there may be a decline in voluntary approach to meet sustainability goals which would result in a decrease in demand for our services and as such could have an adverse effect on our financial condition and results of operations.

After the wave of attention towards 'Climate Change and Global Warming' multiple National and International bodies have given different concepts and mechanisms to reduce level of GHG emissions. Over a period of time, such mechanisms were adopted by many environment conscious countries and organisations as a step towards sustainable environment. These mechanisms are difficult to understand and adopt by an ordinary organization. Moreover the government action in itself is not sufficient to deal with carbon change impacts and more so in reversing the temperature rise. Organizations in India are not mandated under any law to reduce or neutralize their emissions.

Almost all the developed nations are party to The Kyoto Protocol, an agreement between participating developed countries to cut the emission of not only carbon dioxide but of also other greenhouse gases. India has inked the document, but don't have binding targets to meet. Therefore in absence of any such binding agreement, it is challenging to move organizations towards carbon neutrality voluntarily. However industrialized countries invest in emission reducing projects in developing countries, which promotes international carbon trading, the domestic market for generating and/or offsetting carbon credits is still uncovered. Our company aims to create awareness to reduce carbon emissions by providing consultancy services which help project owners to get their projects registered/verified under various GHG program.

Any slowdown in spread of such awareness to reduce carbon emissions and to make Earth's Environment free of Global Warming and lack of government initiatives in the said approach may lead to slowdown in our business operations.

- 3. Carbon pricing is dependent on the supply and demand of carbon credits majorly from developing nations to developed nations. Any increase in the supply of carbon credits in these developing markets would reduce the carbon credit rates as well as our operating margins.

Organizations approach to encourage use of sources of renewable energy and discourage the use of conventional sources of energy would lead to reduction in emission of GHGs in order to protect the environment. All the organizations investing in renewable energy projects would generate carbon credits which could be sold to emitters of carbon di-oxide in developed nations. The pricing of carbon credits depends on bridging the gap of demand and supply in these markets. Expanded investment in renewable sources of energy would create abundant carbon credit thereby reducing its price and our operating margins.

Carbon credit markets have significant price volatility. Carbon credit prices are prone to extreme volatility because the supply of credits is relatively fixed and the demand for the same changes in the short run depending on heavy carbon emissions. Large price swings can result from unanticipated changes in economic activity, weather, fuel prices, or technological developments. Any such volatility or increase in carbon credits in the markets could reduce the carbon pricing as well as our operating margins thereby impacting the financial position of the company.

4. There can be risk of manipulating measurements by our team members or the beneficiary organizations to fraudulently claim additional carbon credits

Clean Development Mechanism (CDM) projects generate carbon credits based on the extent to which the project resulted in fewer emissions than would otherwise have occurred. This provides fraudsters with two possible approaches to manipulate measurements and fraudulently obtain a greater allocation of carbon credits. Firstly, they might overinflate the estimate of the emissions that would otherwise have occurred (for example, overstating the business-as-usual scenario). Secondly, they might fraudulently claim the project reduces emissions to a greater degree than it actually does. Moreover, those doing the measurements might distort their analysis through measuring only certain variables, a selective choice of sites for collecting data, or adopting certain assumptions in the calculations. In many developing countries, a lack of reliable data and/or poor institutional capacity to monitor the data collection process provides ample opportunity for those with vested interests to manipulate carbon measurements to their own advantage.

In our Climate change advisory services and carbon credit trading business we must ensure to address these risks through proper validation and verification before a project receives the carbon credits. Further, concern has been raised about the level of independence of the consultants involved in the business. There is an inherent conflict of interest in which consultants are incentivised to facilitate the project's approval rather than to ensure accuracy of the validation process. To ensure market integrity therefore the priority should be to ensure that carbon credits are correctly recognised such that it can be bought and sold in the market. Thus our team should be vigilant and reliable to comply with all the requirements for reducing fraud and other forms of corruption in the generation of carbon credits. Any failure or negligence of our team could make us susceptible to risk of misappropriation and manipulation in the measurements of carbon credits. Similarly if such misappropriated carbon credits are traded by our organisation, it may have an adverse effect on our reputation and credibility and may expose us to litigations which may involve our time and impact financial position of our company.

5. We have limited experience and knowledge in operating our business and managing the high level of growth we have experienced in our business. If we are unable to successfully manage our growth, our business, prospects, financial condition and results of operations could be adversely affected.

We began our operations with climate change advisory services in the year 2011. Thereafter our company started its consultancy services in the field of business excellence advisory services in the year 2013. Further we started trading of carbon credits from the year 2014 with around 0.10 million credits traded in the 1st year of operations and have grown our business to trading of around 20 million credits in the financial year 2020. We also started the business of Electrical safety Audit from the year 2019. Our total revenue from operations increased to Rs. 6590.43 Lakhs for the FY 2019-20 from Rs. 174.39 Lakhs for the FY 2014-15 and our total revenue from operations was Rs. 5990.33 Lakhs for the six months ended September 30, 2020. We do not have the long-term experience in the field of carbon credit trading or electrical safety audits which may be typically prevalent among our competitors. We have further plans to increase the volume of our operations and our clientele. Any inability to effectively manage, operate and expand our operations may adversely affect our business, prospects, financial condition and results of operations.

6. We will be dependent on our carbon credit trading business for a substantial portion of our revenue and any loss of or damage to any of our existing clients could adversely affect our business, financial condition and results of operations.

Our total revenue from operations for carbon credit trading business for the period ending September 30, 2020 was Rs. 5909.23 Lakhs and for the year ending March 31, 2020 the same was Rs. 6239.85 Lakhs comprising 98.26% and 94.68% of our total revenue from operations respectively. Our income increased during this period primarily as a result of the expansion of our team and securing new contracts. We anticipate that going forward, we will be substantially dependent on the income we generate from these services. Our operation involves a high degree of risk which, even with a combination of experience, knowledge, and careful evaluation, we may not be able to address. In the event that there is any loss of clients or that we are trapped in any type of fraud in the industry as a result of any of the eventualities indicated above, our business, financial condition and results of operations may be adversely affected.

7. Most of the contracts or work order related to business advisory services like ISO Consultancy or other Quality Management Services and Electrical Safety Audits have been awarded primarily through the competitive bidding process. Our bids may not always be lowest or accepted. We may not be able to qualify or compete to win projects, which could adversely affect our business and results of operations.

As a part of our business and operations, we bid and file government tenders for contracts/work orders for business advisory services like ISO Consultancy or other Quality Management Services and Electrical Safety Audits on an on-going basis. Contracts are awarded following competitive bidding processes and satisfaction of prescribed qualification criteria. While service quality, technological capacity and performance, health and safety records and personnel, as well as reputation, experience and availability of financial resources are important considerations for these contracts, there can be no assurance that we would be able to meet such qualification criteria, particularly for larger contracts. Further, once the prospective bidders satisfy the qualification requirements of the tender, the contract is usually awarded based on the quote by the prospective bidders only. We spend considerable time and resources in the preparation and submission of bids. We cannot assure you that we will bid where we have been pre-qualified to submit a bid or that our bids, when submitted or if already submitted, would be the lowest and will be accepted for the contract.

In addition, the government conducted tender processes may be subject to change in qualification criteria, unexpected delays and uncertainties. There can be no assurance that the contracts for which we bid will be tendered within a reasonable time or will be tendered at all. If new projects which have been announced and which we plan to bid for are not put up for tender within the announced timeframe, or qualification criteria are modified such that we are unable to qualify, in such circumstances our business prospects, financial condition, cash flows and results of operations could be materially and adversely affected.

8. If we are unable to attract new clients or our unable to provide recurring services to our existing clients, the growth of our business and cash flows will be adversely affected.

Our top five clients contributed to approximately 58.38% of our revenue from operations based on Restated Financial Statements for the period ended September 30, 2020. To increase our revenue and cash flows, we must regularly add new clients and be able to provide recurring services to our existing clients. If we are unable to generate sufficient sales, or if our existing or new clients do not perceive our services to be of sufficiently high value and quality, we may not be able to increase sales and our operating results would be adversely affected. In addition, we do not have any contracts with our existing client and we get orders based on their requirements. Our client base may decline or fluctuate due to a number of factors, including customers' satisfaction with our services, our prices and the prices of competing service providers. If we fail to sell our services to new customers or if we do not meet the expectations of our existing customers, our operating results will suffer, and our revenue growth, cash flows and profitability may be materially and adversely affected.

Our Company in the past has not filed Certain ROC form such as MGT-14 for board resolution passed by the Further the Company had erroneously appointed Mr. Naveen Sharma & Mrs. Sonali Sheikh as non-executive directors while both of them have been employees of the company before their appointment as director and continued their employment even after being appointed as Director which by virtue of the provisions of the Companies Act, 2013 becomes the position of whole-time director. At present the Company has corrected this error and have properly appointed both of them as Whole Time Directors and have made required e-filings with ROC with respect to said appointments.

Our Company in the past has paid remuneration to its managerial personnel and non-executive director which is in excess of the limit prescribed under the Section 197 of Companies Act, 2013.

Although, no show cause notice in respect of the above has been received by the Company till date, any penalty imposed for such non-compliance in future by any regulatory authority could affect our financial conditions to that extent.

12. We do not own the Registered Office and Corporate Office from which we carry out our business activities. In case of non renewal of rent agreements or dispute in relation to use of the premises, our business and results of operations can be adversely affected.

We do not own the registered office situated at 201, Plot No. 48., Scheme No. 78, Part-II, Vijay Nagar (Near Brilliant Convention Centre) Indore -452010, Madhya Pradesh, India and corporate office situated at Office No: 102 and 301, Plot No. 48., Scheme No. 78, Part-II, Vijay Nagar (Near Brilliant Convention Centre) Indore -452010, Madhya Pradesh, India. In case of any dispute we may suffer a disruption in our operations which could have an adverse effect on our business and operations. Any multiple or overlapping use of the said facilities may create some disruption which may affect our business operations.

For further details regarding our Registered Office and Corporate office, please refer to the section titled “Our Business” on page 98 of this Prospectus.

13. Some part of our business transactions are with government authorities, which may expose us to risk, including additional regulatory scrutiny.

Some of our business operations like carbon credit trading, business advisory or electrical safety audit are based on contracts procured from government undertakings. We may be subject to additional regulatory scrutiny associated with commercial transactions with government owned or controlled entities and agencies. Further, in certain instances, we may face delays associated with collection of receivables from government owned or controlled entities due to various issues at their end.

Our service contracts with government authorities are also subject to certain restrictions including technical audits and approvals by such government authorities which awarded the contract. If we fail to comply with a contractual or any other requirement or if there are any concerns that arise out of the audit conducted by a government entity, or any issues with the quality of service provided by us or our engineering consultants, a variety of penalties can be imposed including monetary damages and penalties. As a result of this, contracts entered into with government entities could be terminated and we could be suspended or debarred from all government work order, or payment of our costs could be disallowed. The occurrence of any of these actions could harm our reputation and could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

14. Trading in carbon credits expose us to credit and operational risk of the dealing organizations.

Credit and operational risk is the potential for a seller to fail to meet its obligations in accordance with agreed terms or if the seller does not have adequate internal control or risk management or other systems in place. Our Company being the intermediary service provider would remain exposed to inherent credit or operational risk of organizations with which it is dealing or transacting. The seller of carbon credits may not pursue appropriately or at all steps required towards reduction in carbon emissions and the estimated credits may not be passed on to the buyer due to operational inefficiencies if any.

Our Company conducts appropriate due diligence to assess and guide the seller to generate carbon credits. Design and implementation of appropriate processes and controls within the organization to obtain, prepare and analyse all relevant information is necessary to avoid failure of supply of carbon credits. However, there may occur events beyond our control like internal disruption of operations, climatic changes, government policies, change in technology or change in consumer preferences etc, which may affect the capabilities of the seller to generate carbon credits and can lead to failure in supply of committed credits. Any such failure would impact the reputation of our organization and may have a material impact on our business operations.

15. Any damage to the trust and confidence that our Company's clients have in us, which is largely dependent on our reputation and service quality, may adversely affect our business, financial performance and results of operations.

Our Company's business is largely dependent on our reputation. Our regime of services entails us to continuously provide quality service to be able to retain clients. This not only fosters confidence and faith in our clients but also spreads our name for quality assured work. However, if we fail to adhere to quality or timelines to complete the assigned work, or if the project subsequently fails to meet the requisite performance standards, we will lose faith and trust of our clients. Our consultancy services are dependent on getting work from the clients on a regular basis. Breach of trust or degradation in quality of services will hamper our Company's market hold. This may be leveraged by our competitors who provide comparable or better services and respond successfully to such competitive pressures.

16. Changes in technology and carbon credit trading mechanism or changes in standards of quality management system and Electrical safety audit may require us to update our knowledge or database or make substantial capital investment.

The present technology or mechanism of carbon credit trading may change based on the requirements of the industry. Moreover we aid organizations in acquiring quality management certifications and also conduct electrical safety audits for organisations. Our team requires to keep itself continuously educated and updated with any change or innovation in the quality management standards or electrical safety norms in the industry. While we currently have a well qualified, experienced team of professionals, our company requires to be updated with latest technology and/or updated system of operations for further development in each type of service provided by us. The cost to upgrade our team and system could be significant and could have an impact on our results of operations and financial position.

17. Our Company has not entered into any long-term contracts with its customers and we typically operate on the basis of orders. Inability to maintain regular order flow would adversely impact our revenues and profitability

We generate revenue through sales of carbon credits or consultancy services to our clients for quality management standards or through electrical safety audits. Quality of service and reliability, competitive pricing, post service support, etc. are some of the major criteria which enable us to build continuing relationships with our Customer. Our Company has strong business relationships with certain customers. However, we have not entered into any long term contracts with any of our customers and we cater to them on an order-by-order basis.

As a result, our customers can terminate their relationships with us without any notice, which could materially and adversely impact our business. There is no assurance that we will be able to obtain continuous business, get awarded with orders every time or at all. The loss of order by a significant customer or a number of significant customers on a regular basis or at all may have an adverse effect on our revenues, cash flows and operations.

18. Fluctuation in foreign currency exchange rates could affect our financial condition and results of operations.

Our business of Carbon credit trading involves transactions in foreign countries which is quoted in either U.S. Dollars, GBP, Australian Dollars or EURO. A depreciation of Rupee against these foreign currencies would mean that our imports would become expensive and will impact our profitability. During the stub period ended on September 30, 2020 and FY 2019-20, 2018-19 and 2017-18 our imports accounted for approximately Rs. 2945.15 lakhs, Rs. 2216.38 lakhs, Rs.862.23 Lakhs and Rs. 257.65. lakhs respectively. Similarly we export carbon credits also and any appreciation of Rupee against these foreign currencies would mean that the amount we receive on sales in Rupee would decrease. The exchange rate between the Rupee and these foreign currencies has fluctuated substantially in recent years and may continue to fluctuate significantly in the future. During the stub period ended on September 30, 2020 and FY 2019-20, 2018-19 and 2017-18 such exports contributed to approximately Rs. 5819.41 lakhs, Rs. 6136.96 lakhs, Rs. 1813.70 lakhs and Rs. 564.53 lakhs respectively. We bear the complete risk of currency exchange rate fluctuations. Any appreciation of Rupee against these foreign currencies may adversely affect our sales, profitability and our results of operations.

19. We may be unable to attract and retain qualified, skilled employees necessary to manage, maintain and grow our business.

Our success depends in large part on our ability to attract and retain highly skilled and qualified personnel, such as engineers, operations managers, and sales and service staff. Skilled employees with appropriate experience in the services industry are scarce and the employment market for such personnel is very competitive. As on September 30, 2020 we have a strong team of 70 personnel. We may experience a reduction in the experience level of our personnel as a result of any increased attrition, which could lead to higher downtime and more operating incidents, which in turn could decrease revenues and increase costs. Competition has resulted in inflationary pressure on hiring, training and retention costs for such personnel. The financial resources required to continue to attract and retain such personnel may adversely affect our operating margins.

20. One of our Group Companies, Carbon Neutral Europe OU, is under liquidation in the country of its incorporation, Estonia. Any adverse effect on the company in its process of liquidation may have an impact on our promoter and may affect our reputation and business.

One of our Group Companies, Carbon Neutral Europe OU, established in Estonia is under the process of liquidation w.e.f January 30, 2020. Our promoter Mr. Manish Kumar Dabkara holds 100% shares in the said company. Carbon Neutral Europe OU has not prepared any of its financial statements since its incorporation from January 08, 2019 since there were no activities in the company. Any penal action due to failure to prepare financial statements or in the process of liquidation may divert the attention of our promoter and affect our reputation and business operations.

There can be no assurance that our Group Companies will not incur losses in the future which may have an adverse effect on our reputation and business.

21. We could be harmed by employee misconduct or errors that are difficult to detect and any such incidences could adversely affect our financial condition, results of operations and reputation.

Employee misconduct or errors could expose us to business risks or losses, including regulatory sanctions and serious harm to our reputation. There can be no assurance that we will be able to detect or deter such misconduct. Moreover, the precautions we take to prevent and detect such activity may not be effective in all cases. Our employees may also commit errors that could subject us to claims and proceedings for alleged negligence, as well as regulatory actions on account of which our business, financial condition, results of operations and goodwill could be adversely affected.

22. We have limited experience in markets outside of India and failure with respect to opportunities we explore outside of India could have an adverse effect on our results of operations and financial performance.

Part of our growth strategy includes entering new markets for carbon credit trading and to provide services in foreign markets. Failure to understand or comply with relevant local regulations could have a detrimental effect to our business operations. In addition, our strategy to enter new markets may not be successful due to other factors, such as entry barriers, competition or due to commercial requirements to employ promotional pricing schemes for our services or trading activities, any of which may have an adverse impact on our business and financial condition.

23. Our Promoter, Directors and Key Management Personnel have interest in our Company, other than reimbursement of expenses incurred or remuneration.

Our Promoter, Directors and Key Management Personnel can be deemed to be interested to the extent of the Equity Shares held by them, or their relatives, dividend entitlement, or loans advanced to them or provided by them for our Company, and benefits deriving from the directorship in our Company. Our Promoter are interested in the transactions entered into our Company and our Promoter Group. For further information, please refer to the chapters/section titled “Our Business”, “Our Promoter and Promoter Group” and “Financial information of the Company-Related Party Transactions”, beginning on pages 98, 139 and 144 respectively.

24. We have made investment in mutual funds and bank fixed deposits, the returns on which would be adversely impacted by changes in the interest rates and volatility in the financial markets.

We have made in the past and intend to continue making investments in mutual funds or bank fixed deposits. Such investments as on March 31, 2020 and for the stub period ended on September 30, 2020 were Rs. 8.95lacs and Rs. 638.91 lacs and our income from investments was Rs. 8.16 lacs for the FY 19-20 and Rs. 5.02 lacs for the stub period ended on September 30, 2020. Changes in interest rates and volatility in the financial markets may adversely affect our income from such investments and the market value of our portfolio.

25. We operate in a very niche industry and the competition in the market is subject to intense price competition and service quality. If we are unable to bid for and win contracts/work orders or compete with larger competitors, we could fail to secure orders/contracts and our results of operations may be materially adversely affected.

The principal competitive factors in our service industry include:

- pricing and other costs,
- quality service and reputation of our company;
- pre-qualification criteria and prior experience;
- Qualification, technical capabilities and experience of our personnel;
- safety and efficiency;

Some of our competitors may have greater industry experience and substantial financial, technical and other resources which enables them to undertake larger projects or contracts. Although there are numerous factors that could affect our business operations, pricing plays an important role in most tender awards or other contracts or work orders. While we have, in the past, been awarded many contracts, we cannot assure you that we will continue to be awarded such contracts. Some of the new entrants may also bid at lower margins to get a contract. As a result, the nature of the bidding process may cause us and our competitors to accept lower margins to get a contract. We may also decide not to participate in some projects as accepting such lower margins may not be financially viable and this may adversely affect our competitiveness to bid for and win future contracts. Our inability to effectively manage such competitive pressures and manage our costs efficiently, could have a material adverse effect on our operating margins, business growth and prospects, financial condition and results of operations.

26. Carbon Credit Trading could also be affected by the risk of political or regulatory uncertainty.

Trading volumes, prices, and the number of participants willing to trade could fall if certain legislative, regulatory, or legal actions is initiated that may significantly change the design and implementation of a carbon trading program. Furthermore any such political and regulatory uncertainty would have to be mitigated by designing a carbon trading mechanism that has a long time frame and other elements that increase the certainty of the program’s structure or that reduce the potential for significant changes after implementation.

27. Our operations are subject to high working capital requirements. Our inability to maintain an optimal level of working capital required for our business may impact our operations adversely.

Our business requires significant amount of working capital and major portion of our working capital is utilized towards trade receivables. We have been sanctioned Overdraft facility of Rs. 500 lakhs from ICICI Bank Limited. Our growing scales of operation and expansion, if any, may result in increase in the quantum of current assets. Our inability to maintain sufficient cash flow, credit facility and other sourcing of funding, in a timely manner, or at all, to meet the requirement of working capital or pay out debts, could adversely affect our financial condition and result of our operations. Further, we have high outstanding amount due from our debtors which may result in a high risk in case of non-payment by these debtors. In case of any such defaults from our debtors, may affect our business operations and financials.

28. We rely on our information technology systems for our operations and its reliability and functionality is critical to the success of our business.

We rely on our information technology systems for our operations and its reliability and functionality is critical to our business success. Our growing dependence on the IT infrastructure, applications, and data has caused us to have a vested interest in its reliability and functionality, which can be affected by several factors, including, the increasing complexity of the IT systems, frequent change and short life span due to technological advancements and data security. Any system error or failure, or a sudden and significant increase in bandwidth usage, could result in the unavailability of systems to us. Our computer networks may also be vulnerable to unauthorized access, computer hackers, computer viruses and other security problems. A user who circumvents security measures could misappropriate proprietary information or cause interruptions or malfunctions in operations. As a result, we may be required to expend significant resources to protect against these threats. If our IT systems malfunction or experience extended periods of down time, we may not be able to run our operations safely or efficiently. We may suffer losses in revenue, reputation and volume of business and our financial condition and results of operation may be materially and adversely affected. So far, we have not experienced any material widespread disruptions of service to our clients, but there can be no assurance that we may not encounter disruptions in the future.

29. Our Company has certain contingent liabilities, which if materialized may adversely affect our financial condition.

As on September 30, 2020, our Company has following contingent liabilities as per restated financials of the Company:

(Amount in Rs. Lakhs)

Particulars	As at September 30, 2020
Taxation Liabilities (Direct Tax)	0.24
Other Pending Litigation	49.86
Guarantees given on Behalf of the Company	13.37
Total	63.47

In the event any such contingencies mentioned above were to materialize or if our contingent liabilities were to increase in the future, our financial condition could be adversely affected. For further details, see the section entitled “Financial Statements” on page 144 of this Prospectus.

30. Trade receivables form a major part of our current assets and net worth. Failure to manage our trade receivables could have an adverse effect on our net sales, profitability, cash flow and liquidity.

Our business depends on our ability to successfully obtain payment from our customers of the amounts they owe us for service performed or for the carbon credits traded. Based on the Restated Financial Statements, our trade receivables for the stub period ending on September 30, 2020 and FY 2020, 2019 and 2018, were Rs 584.56 Lakhs, Rs. 430.01 Lakhs, Rs. 246.95 Lakhs and Rs. 169.98 Lakhs representing 9.76%, 6.52%, 12.50% and 24.33% of our total revenue from operations for the respective periods. For the stub period ending on September 30, 2020, our top 5 debtors represent 43.09% of our total outstanding debt. In case of any delay or failure to repay the dues, cash flow and financial operations of our Company may get affected. We cannot assure you that we will be able to accurately assess the creditworthiness of our customers and will be able to collect the dues in time. Further, we are also required to provide EMD and security deposits to the customers which are generally repayable after the completion of work orders. In case any amount due from our customer becomes doubtful, there could be circumstances that we may not be able to realize the EMD and security deposits provided to the customers.

Macroeconomic conditions could also result in financial difficulties for our customers, including limited access to the credit markets, insolvency or bankruptcy. Such conditions could cause customers to delay payment, request modifications of their payment terms, or default on their payment obligations to us, cause us to enter into litigation for non-payment, all of which could increase our receivables. In any such case, we might experience delays in the collection of, or be unable to collect, our customer balances, and if this occurs, our results of operations and cashflows could be adversely affected.

31. We are heavily dependent on our Promoter and Key Managerial Personnel for the continued success of our business through their continuing services and strategic guidance and support.

Our success heavily depends upon the continued services of our Key Managerial Personnel, along with support of our Promoter. We have a strong team of qualified professional on the Board of the Company. Thus we depend significantly on our Key Managerial Personnel for executing our day to day activities. The loss of any of our Promoter or Key Management Personnel, or failure to recruit suitable or comparable replacements, could have an adverse effect on us. The loss of service of the Promoter and other senior management could seriously impair the ability to continue to manage and expand the business efficiently. If we are unable to retain qualified employees at a reasonable cost, we may be unable to execute our growth strategy. For further details of our Promoter, Directors and Key Managerial Personnel, please refer to chapter “Our Promoter and Promoter Group” and “Our Management” beginning on page 139 and 125.

The Equity Shares allotted to the investors pursuant to this issue may be priced significantly higher due to various factors including better performance by the Company, better economic conditions and passage of time. For details, please refer to section titled “Capital Structure” on page 61 of this Prospectus. The Issue Price is not indicative of the price that will prevail in the open market following listing of the Equity Shares.

33. We have registered our trademarks used in our businesses and our inability to protect or maintain these registrations may adversely affect our competitive business position.

Our Company has filed applications for registration of our Company’s logo  with the Trade Marks Registry for registration under class 35 of the Indian Trademarks Rules, 2002 bearing application no. 4481530 dated March 24, 2020. The current status of the application is Accepted and Advertised. We are subject to the various risks arising out of the same, including but not limited to infringement or passing off our name and logo by a third party. The registration of any trademark is a time-consuming process, and there can be no assurance that any such registration will be granted as and when applied. In the absence of such registration, competitors or other companies may challenge the validity or scope of our intellectual property. These trademarks are integral to our business, and the loss of any of these intellectual property rights could have a material adverse effect on our business.

There can be no assurance that we will be able to obtain the registration of our trademarks in a timely manner, or at all. If our unregistered trademark is registered in favour of a third party, we may not be able to claim registered ownership of such trademarks and consequently, we may be unable to seek remedies for infringement of those trademarks by third parties other than relief against passing off by other entities. 34. Our Promoter, Directors and Promoter Group Members have provided personal guarantees for overdraft facilities obtained by our Company, and any failure or default by our Company to repay such loans in accordance with the terms and conditions of the financing documents could trigger repayment obligations on them, which may impact their ability to effectively service their obligations as our Promoter or Directors and thereby, impact our business and operations.

Mr. Manish Kumar Dabkara, Promoter and Managing Director, Mr. Naveen Sharma, Whole Time Director, Mrs. Priyanka Dabkara, Non-Executive Director and our Promoter Group Member, Mrs. Vidhya Dabkara, have extended personally guarantee towards overdraft facilities taken by our Company. Any default or failure by us to repay the loan in a timely manner, or at all could trigger repayment obligations of our guarantors in respect of such loans, which in turn, could have an impact on their ability to effectively service their obligations as Promoter or Directors of our Company, thereby having an effect on our business, results of operation and financial condition. Furthermore, in the event that these individuals withdraw or terminate their guarantees, our lender for such facilities may ask for alternate guarantees, repayment of amounts outstanding under such facilities, or even terminate such facilities. We may not be successful in procuring guarantees satisfactory to the lender, and as a result may need to repay outstanding amounts under such facilities or seek additional sources of capital, which could affect our financial condition and cash flows. For further details, please refer to chapter titled “Statement of Financial Indebtedness” beginning on page 182 of this Prospectus.

In the event we default in repayment of the loans / facilities availed and any interest thereof, our properties may be forfeited by the lenders. For further information on the financing and loan agreements along with the total amounts outstanding and the details of the repayment schedule, please refer to chapter “Statement of Financial Indebtedness” beginning on page 182 of this Prospectus.

36. We are required to furnish bank guarantees as part of our business. Our inability to arrange such guarantees or the invocation of such guarantees may adversely affect our cash flows and financial condition.

As part of our business it is customary to provide financial and performance bank guarantees in favour of our clients. These guarantees are typically required to be furnished within a few days of the signing of a contract and remain valid up to execution of the contract. We may not be able to continue obtaining new financial and performance bank guarantees required to match our business requirements. If we are unable to provide sufficient collateral to secure the financial bank guarantees, performance bank guarantees, our ability to enter into new contracts or adequate trade carbon credits could be limited and could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition. Also, there may be scenarios where we may be unable to fulfill our obligations under the contracts entered into by us in relation to our ongoing projects due to unforeseen circumstances which may result in a default under our contracts resulting in invocation of the bank guarantees issued by us. If any or all the bank guarantees are invoked, it may result in a material adverse effect on our business and financial condition.

37. Non-financial Reporting due to lack of measurement standards, systems and assurance does not provide guidance to companies to disclose the effects of climate change on their businesses.

The current requirements for companies to report on sustainability issues vary widely across jurisdictions. In many countries, Companies have a duty to consider and report on the material social and environmental implications of their business, but there are no formal requirements on what to report. The three main challenges in the reporting of non-financial information are measurement, systems and assurance. There is no clearly defined and globally consistent financial accounting standard to measure carbon emissions or carbon offsets. The majority of systems used to collect non-financial data are either immature or not well established across organizations. Most businesses use simple spreadsheet systems at present, in contrast to the sophisticated systems used for the collection and consolidation of financial information. In absence of organized systems there is no proper check to ensure that the correct data enters the system and that the output is complete, accurate and robust. Credible independent third parties provide assurance over financial information, to provide confidence in its integrity and facilitate the efficient operation of markets. Currently a wide range of service providers exist, from large-scale firms to environmental boutiques, all providing different levels of assurance. Financial sanctions do not yet apply in the sustainability arena.

Thus to reduce measurement risks, companies need to define specific criteria and design a transparent, consistent approach to communicating their outcomes, either through their annual report, sustainability report and/or company website. Non-financial reporting further makes the industry more vulnerable to misinformation and loss of confidence and companies do not get proper guidance to disclose the effects of climate change on their businesses.

38. We are subject to certain restrictive covenants in overdraft facilities provided to us by our lender.

We have entered into agreements for availing overdraft facilities from lender ICICI Bank Limited. Certain covenants in these agreements require us to obtain approval/permission from our lender in certain conditions. In the event of default or the breach of certain covenants, our lender has the option to make the entire outstanding amount payable immediately. There can be no assurance that we will be able to comply with these financial or other covenants or that we will be able to obtain consents necessary to take the actions that we believe are required to operate and grow our business.

For further details in this regard, please refer to chapter titled ‘Statement of Financial Indebtedness’ beginning on page 182 of this Prospectus.

39. Our inability to adapt to the changing needs of the industry and specific requirements of our clients may adversely affect our business prospects, results of operations and financial condition.

There can be no assurance that we will be able to address these requirements in a cost-effective and timely manner, or at all. We may not have access to advanced resources or technologies or processes and may not succeed in adopting and delivering emerging industry standards and processes in a cost-effective and timely manner. If we are unable, for technical, legal, financial or other reasons, to adapt in a timely and cost-effective manner to changing market conditions, customer requirements or technological changes, our business operations and financial performance could be adversely affected.

40. Our Company in the past has entered into Related Party Transactions and may continue to do so in future also, which may affect our competitive edge and better bargaining power if entered with non-related parties resulting into relatively more favourable terms and conditions and better margins.

Our Company has entered into various transactions with our Directors, Promoter and Promoter Group significantly influenced by the Directors of our Company. These transactions, inter-alia include issue of shares, remuneration, rent payments, loans and advances, etc. Our Company has entered into such transactions due to easy proximity and quick execution. However, there is no assurance that we could not have obtained better and more favourable terms than from transaction with related parties. Additionally, while it is our belief that all our related party transactions have been conducted on an arm’s length basis, we cannot provide assurance that we could have achieved more favorable terms had such transactions been entered with third parties. Our Company may enter into such transactions in future also and we cannot assure that in such events there would be no adverse effect on results of our operations, although going forward, all related party transactions that we may enter will be subject to board or shareholder approval, as under the Companies Act, 2013 and the Listing Regulations. Our significant insurance policies include various insurance policies such as Business Advantage - All Risks Health Insurance, Group Care Policy – to insure our employees, Bundled - Private Car Policy, etc. We cannot assure you that any claim under the insurance policies maintained by us will be honored fully, in part, or in a timely manner. 44. We have incurred significant indebtedness which exposes us to various risks which may have an adverse effect on our business and results of operations.

Our ability to borrow and the terms of our borrowings will depend on our financial condition, the stability of our cash flows, general market conditions, economic and political conditions in the markets where we operate and our capacity to service debt. As on September 30, 2020, our total outstanding indebtedness was Rs. 96.59 Lakhs.

Our significant indebtedness results in substantial amount of debt service obligations which could lead to:

1. increasing our vulnerability to general adverse economic, industry and competitive conditions;

3. affecting our credit rating;
4. limiting our ability to borrow more money both now and in the future; and

Our management, in accordance with the policies established by our Board from time to time, will have flexibility in deploying the Net Proceeds of the Issue. Based on the competitive nature of our industry, we may have to revise our business plan and/ or management estimates from time to time and consequently our funding requirements may also change. Our management estimates may exceed our funding requirements, which may require us to reschedule or reallocate our expenditure and may have an adverse impact on our business, financial condition, results of operations and cash flows.

- 49. *We have not identified any alternate source of funding and hence any failure or delay on our part to mobilize the required resources or any shortfall in the Issue proceeds may delay the implementation schedule.

The proposed fund requirement for our business, as detailed in the section titled “Objects of the Issue” is to be funded from the proceeds of this IPO. We have not identified any alternate source of funding and hence any failure or delay on our part to mobilize the required resources or any shortfall in the Issue proceeds may delay the operations. We may retain all our future earnings, if any, for use in the operations and expansion of our business. As a result, we may not declare dividends in the foreseeable future. Any future determination as to the declaration and payment of dividends will be at the discretion of our Board of Directors and will depend on factors that our Board of Directors deem relevant, including among others, our results of operations, financial condition, cash requirements, business prospects and any other financing arrangements. Accordingly, realization of a gain on shareholders investments may largely depend upon the appreciation of the price of our Equity Shares. There can be no assurance that our Equity Shares will appreciate in value. For details of our Dividend history refer to the chapter titled “Dividend Policy” beginning on page 143.

Our Promoter along with the promoter group will continue to hold collectively almost 73.47% of the Post Issue Equity Share Capital of our Company. As a result of the same, they will be able to exercise significant influence over the control of the outcome of the matter that requires approval of the majority shareholders vote. Such a concentration of the ownership may also have the effect of delaying, preventing or deterring any change in the control of our company. In addition to the above, our promoter will continue to have the ability to take actions that are not in, or may conflict with our interest or the interest of some or all of our minority shareholders, and there is no assurance that such action will not have any adverse effect on our future financials or results of operations.

STT will be levied on and collected by a domestic stock exchange on which the Equity Shares are sold. For more details, please refer to “Statement of Tax Benefits” beginning on page 84.

EXTERNAL RISK FACTORS

57. Retreat of any of the developed nations from Kyoto Protocol or inflexibility in the Paris Agreement may impact the carbon credit trading business.

The business model of carbon credit trading has evolved pursuant to compliance of compulsory offsetting of carbon footprints by the developed nations. The Kyoto Protocol is a protocol to the International Framework Convention on Climate Change with the objective of reducing Green House Gases (GHGs) that cause climate change. The Kyoto Protocol defines legally binding targets and timetables for reducing the GHG emissions of industrialized countries that ratified the Kyoto Protocol. Governments have been separated into developed nations (who have accepted GHG emission reduction obligations) and developing nations (who have no GHG emission reduction obligations). Under the Paris Agreement, countries with low emissions would be allowed to sell their exceeding allowance to larger emitters, with an overall cap of greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions, ensuring their net reduction. Supply and demand for emissions allowances would lead to the establishment of a global carbon price that would tie the negative externalities of GHG emissions to polluters. In other words, by paying a price on carbon, states exceeding their NDCs would bear the costs of global warming.

Unlike the Kyoto Protocol, which established legally binding emissions reduction targets (as well as penalties for noncompliance) for developed nations only, the Paris Agreement requires that all countries—rich, poor, developed, and developing—do their part and slash greenhouse gas emissions. To that end, greater flexibility is built into the Paris Agreement. If any of the developed nations quit the binding Kyoto protocol or the flexibility in Paris Agreement is withdrawn, it will adversely affect our business operations. Moreover the overall business of carbon credit trading has evolved under the Kyoto Protocol and has further grown with introduction of more flexibility in Paris Agreement. Any dissolution, adverse change in terms and conditions or applicability of the Kyoto Protocol or articles of Paris Agreement will slowdown our business operations or may require us to adhere to new regulatory framework which may involve time, money and may adversely affect the business operations of our Company.

58. Our business is dependent on the Indian and global economy.

The performance and growth of our business are necessarily dependent on economic conditions prevalent in India and abroad, which may be materially and adversely affected by political instability or regional conflicts, a general rise in interest rates, inflation, and economic slowdown elsewhere in the world or otherwise. India's economic growth is affected by various factors including domestic consumption and savings, balance of trade movements, namely export demand and movements in key imports global economic uncertainty and liquidity crisis, volatility in exchange currency rates and annual rainfall which affects agricultural production. Any continued or future slowdown in the Indian economy or a further increase in inflation could have a material adverse effect on the price of our raw materials and demand for our products and, as a result, on our business and financial results. The Indian financial market and the Indian economy are influenced by economic and market conditions in other countries, particularly in emerging market in Asian countries. Financial turmoil in Asia, Europe, the U.S. and elsewhere in the world in recent years has affected the Indian economy. Although economic conditions are different in each country, investors' reactions to developments in one country can have adverse effects on the securities of companies in other countries, including India. A loss in investor confidence in the financial systems of other emerging markets may cause increased volatility in Indian financial markets and, indirectly, in the Indian economy in general. Any worldwide financial instability, including the financial crisis and fluctuations in the stock markets in China and further deterioration of credit conditions in the U.S. or European markets, could also have a negative impact on the Indian economy. Financial disruptions may occur again and could harm our business and financial results.

59. Regional hostilities, terrorist attacks, communal disturbances, civil unrest and other acts of violence or war involving India and other countries may result in a loss of investor confidence and adversely affect the financial markets and our business.

Terrorist attacks, civil unrest and other acts of violence or war may negatively affect the Indian markets on which our Equity Shares will trade and also adversely affect the worldwide financial markets. In addition, the Asian region has from time to time experienced instances of civil unrest and hostilities among neighboring countries. Hostilities and tensions may occur in the future and on a wider scale. Military activity or terrorist attacks in India, may result in investor concern about stability in the region, which may adversely affect the price of our Equity Shares. Events of this nature in the future, as well as social and civil unrest within other countries in the world, could influence the Indian economy and could have an adverse effect on the market for securities of Indian companies, including our Equity Shares.

60. Changing laws, rules and regulations and legal uncertainties in India, including adverse application of tax laws and regulations, may adversely affect our business and financial performance.

Our business and financial performance could be adversely affected by changes in law or interpretations of existing, or the promulgation of new, laws, rules and regulations in India applicable to us and our business. For further details please refer to the chapter “Government and Other Approvals” beginning on page 198 for details of the laws currently applicable to us. There can be no assurance that the central or the state governments in India may not implement new regulations and policies which will require us to obtain approvals and licenses from the central or the state governments in India and other regulatory bodies or impose onerous requirements and conditions on our operations. Any such changes and the related uncertainties with respect to the implementation of the new regulations may have a material adverse effect on all our business, financial condition and results of operations. In addition, we may have to incur capital expenditures to comply with the requirements of any new regulations, which may also materially harm our results of operations.

61. Instability in financial markets could materially and adversely affect our results of operations and financial conditions.

The Indian economy and financial markets are significantly influenced by worldwide economic, financial and market conditions. Any financial turmoil, especially in the United States of America or Europe, may have a negative impact on the Indian economy. Although economic conditions differ in each country, investors’ reactions to any significant developments in one country can have adverse effects on the financial and market conditions in other countries. A loss in investor confidence in the financial systems, particularly in other emerging markets, may cause increased volatility in Indian financial markets. The global financial turmoil, an outcome of the sub-prime mortgage crisis which originated in the United States of America, led to a loss of investor confidence in worldwide financial markets. Indian financial markets have also experienced the contagion effect of the global financial turmoil, evident from the sharp decline in benchmark index of stock exchanges i.e. NSE-NIFTY and BSE-SENSEX. Any prolonged financial crisis may have an adverse impact on the Indian economy and us, thereby resulting in a material and adverse effect on our business, operations, financial condition, profitability and price of our Equity Shares.

62. Natural or man-made calamities could have a negative impact on the Indian economy and cause Our Company’s business to suffer.

The recent outbreak of the corona virus (COVID-19) has brought considerable human suffering and major economic disruption in the entire India as well as in other Countries. In line with the overall Economic scenario worldwide the entire segments of business of our Company have also been affected adversely. The said worldwide turmoil may impose further adverse effect on our business, revenues and profitability. Further in recent years, India has experienced natural calamities such as earthquakes, tsunami, floods etc. in various states. Prolonged spells of abnormal rainfall or other natural or man-made calamities could have a negative impact on the Indian economy, which could adversely affect our business, prospects, financial condition and results of operations as well as the price of the Equity Shares.

63. Government regulation of foreign ownership of Indian securities may have an adverse effect on the price of the Equity Shares.

Foreign ownership of Indian securities is subject to government regulation. Under foreign exchange regulations currently in effect in India, transfer of shares between non-residents and residents are freely permitted (subject to certain exceptions) if they comply with the pricing guidelines and reporting requirements specified by the RBI. If the transfer of shares, which are sought to be transferred, is not in compliance with such pricing guidelines or reporting requirements or fall under any of the exceptions referred to above, then the prior approval of the RBI will be required. Additionally, shareholders who seek to convert the rupees proceeds from the sale of shares in India into foreign currency and repatriate that foreign currency from India will require a no objection/ tax clearance certificate from the Income Tax authorities. There can be no assurance that any approval required from the RBI or any other government agency can be obtained.

64. Our performance is linked to the stability of policies and the political situation in India. Any change in political situation in India could impact the market price of our shares on the stock exchange.

The Government of India has traditionally exercised, and continues to exercise, a significant influence over many aspects of the economy. Our business, and the market price and liquidity of our Equity Shares, may be affected by interest rates, changes in government policy, taxation, social and civil unrest and other political, economic or other developments in or affecting India. Since 1991, successive Indian governments have pursued policies of economic liberalization and financial sector reforms. The current Government has announced its general intention to continue India's current economic and financial sector liberalization and deregulation policies.

However, there can be no assurance that such policies will be continued and a significant change in the government's policies in the future could affect business and economic conditions in India and could also adversely affect our business, prospects, financial condition and results of operations.

Any political instability in India may adversely affect the Indian securities markets in general, which could also adversely affect the trading price of our Equity Shares. Any political instability could delay the reform of the Indian economy and could have a material adverse effect on the market for our Equity Shares. There can be no assurance to the investors that these liberalization policies will continue under the newly elected government. Protests against privatization could slow down the pace of liberalization and deregulation. The rate of economic liberalization could change, and specific laws and policies affecting companies in the industrial equipment manufacturing sectors, foreign investment, currency exchange rates and other matters affecting investment in our securities could change as well. A significant change in India's economic liberalization and deregulation policies could disrupt business and economic conditions in India and thereby affect our business.

World Economic Outlook

Global growth is projected at –4.9 percent in 2020, 1.9 percentage points below the April 2020 World Economic Outlook (WEO) forecast. The COVID-19 pandemic has had a more negative impact on activity in the first half of 2020 than anticipated, and the recovery is projected to be more gradual than previously forecast. In 2021 global growth is projected at 5.4 percent. Overall, this would leave 2021 GDP some 6½ percentage points lower than in the preCOVID-19 projections of January 2020. The adverse impact on low-income households is particularly acute, imperiling the significant progress made in reducing extreme poverty in the world since the 1990s.

As with the April 2020 WEO projections, there is a higher-than-usual degree of uncertainty around this forecast. The baseline projection rests on key assumptions about the fallout from the pandemic. In economies with declining infection rates, the slower recovery path in the updated forecast reflects persistent social distancing into the second half of 2020; greater scarring (damage to supply potential) from the larger-than-anticipated hit to activity during the lockdown in the first and second quarters of 2020; and a hit to productivity as surviving businesses ramp up necessary workplace safety and hygiene practices. For economies struggling to control infection rates, a lengthier lockdown will inflict an additional toll on activity. Moreover, the forecast assumes that financial conditions—which have eased following the release of the April 2020 WEO—will remain broadly at current levels. Alternative outcomes to those in the baseline are clearly possible, and not just because of how the pandemic is evolving. The extent of the recent rebound in financial market sentiment appears disconnected from shifts in underlying economic prospects—as the June 2020 Global Financial Stability Report (GFSR) Update discusses—raising the possibility that financial conditions may tighten more than assumed in the baseline.

All countries—including those that have seemingly passed peaks in infections—should ensure that their health care systems are adequately resourced. The international community must vastly step up its support of national initiatives, including through financial assistance to countries with limited health care capacity and channeling of funding for vaccine production as trials advance, so that adequate, affordable doses are quickly available to all countries. Where lockdowns are required, economic policy should continue to cushion household income losses with sizable, well targeted measures as well as provide support to firms suffering the consequences of mandated restrictions on activity. Where economies are reopening, targeted support should be gradually unwound as the recovery gets underway, and policies should provide stimulus to lift demand and ease and incentivize the reallocation of resources away from sectors likely to emerge persistently smaller after the pandemic.

Strong multilateral cooperation remains essential on multiple fronts. Liquidity assistance is urgently needed for countries confronting health crises and external funding shortfalls, including through debt relief and financing through the global financial safety net. Beyond the pandemic, policymakers must cooperate to resolve trade and technology tensions that endanger an eventual recovery from the COVID-19 crisis. Furthermore, building on the record drop in greenhouse gas emissions during the pandemic, policymakers should both implement their climate change mitigation commitments and work together to scale up equitably designed carbon taxation or equivalent schemes. The global community must act now to avoid a repeat of this catastrophe by building global stockpiles of essential supplies and protective equipment, funding research and supporting public health systems, and putting in place effective modalities for delivering relief to the neediest.

Overview of the Indian Economy

ECONOMIC GROWTH

The World Bank projected the economy to contract by 3.2 percent in FY20/21, and rebound slowly in FY21/22. It further estimated that the COVID-19 outbreak is likely to have significant fiscal implications. The fiscal deficit of the central government is likely to increase to 6.6 percent of GDP in FY20/21 and is expected to remain elevated at 5.5 percent in the following year. Assuming that the states' deficit is contained within 3.5-4.5 percent of GDP, the combined deficit could rise to around 11 percent in FY20/21. While there is a significant level of uncertainty around the projections, the general government debt-to-GDP ratio is projected to peak at around 89 percent in FY22/23 before gradually declining thereafter.

While the Government of India, with the support of the Reserve Bank, is continuing to take action to limit the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic, there is a recognition of both the uncertainty of the nature of the economic revival globally and the emergence of opportunities opened by the current crisis. Countries that invest in sectoral reforms – infrastructure, labor and land, human capital -- and ensure that their national systems are connected to the Global Value Chains, are more able to respond to uncertainties and are better placed to take advantage of any global shifts. Investing in these areas will give India the ability to navigate these uncertainties and be more competitive as the world emerges from the pandemic.

CARBON CREDIT INDUSTRY

What Is A Carbon Credit?

A carbon credit represents ownership of the equivalent of one metric ton of carbon dioxide that can be traded, sold or retired. If an organization is regulated under a cap-and-trade system (e.g., the California Cap and Trade Program) it likely has an allowance of credits it can use towards its cap. If the organization produces fewer tons of carbon emissions than it is allocated, the organization can trade, sell or hold the remaining carbon credits. When a credit is sold, the buyer is purchasing the seller's allowance of emissions. A credit becomes tradeable because of a very real reduction in emissions, but the reduction is from an activity you might not be aware of such as flying less or turning equipment off at night.

What Is A Carbon Offset?

A carbon offset also represents a real reduction of carbon dioxide in the atmosphere and results in the generation of a carbon credit. The difference is, the credit is generated as the result of a project with clear boundaries, title, project documents and a verification plan. In most cases, carbon offsets generate reductions outside of the organization and, more importantly, outside of any regulatory requirement. Common projects include building wind farms, supporting truck stop electrification projects to reduce tailpipe emissions, and planting trees or preserving forests. Because carbon dioxide has global not local impact, both credits and offsets have the same reduction in carbon dioxide emissions and have the same benefit to the planet in terms of climate change.

What Are Carbon Markets?

Carbon markets aim to reduce greenhouse gas emissions enabling the trading of emission units (carbon credits), which are certificates representing emission reductions. Trading enables entities that can reduce emissions at a lower cost to be paid to do so by higher-cost emitters. By putting a price on carbon emissions, carbon market mechanisms raise awareness of the environmental and social costs of carbon pollution, encouraging investors and consumers to choose lower-carbon paths. There are two main categories of carbon markets: cap-and-trade and voluntary. Cap-and-trade sets a mandatory limit (cap) on greenhouse gas emissions and organizations that exceed these limits can purchase excess allowances to fill the gap or pay a fine. Voluntary markets enable the trading of carbon credits outside of the regulatory environment.

Compliance Carbon Markets

In certain jurisdictions, such as the European Union and California, companies are required by environmental cap-and-trade laws to offset their carbon footprint. Cap-and-trade lets the market find the least expensive way to cut emissions while driving technological innovation and economic growth. The 'cap' is the upper limit on the amount of carbon emissions a company can legally produce. As the cap is reduced for future years, total pollution declines. Electric utilities, refineries and large factories with emissions that exceed a pre-established amount of carbon tons per year must hold allowances (permits to emit one ton of carbon) or offsets (carbon credits) equivalent to their annual emissions. These organizations enter a compliance carbon market where carbon credits can be bought and sold.

Voluntary Carbon Markets

The voluntary carbon marketplace includes all transactions of carbon offsets not purchased with the intent to surrender them into an active regulated carbon market, as well as offsets purchased with the intent to re-sell or retire them to meet carbon neutral or other environmental claims. The voluntary market is driven by companies and individuals that take responsibility for offsetting their own emissions, and entities that purchase offsets before emissions reductions are required by regulation. Buyers are driven by corporate social responsibility, ethics, a desire to enhance their reputation and so on. Pre-compliance buyers may want to purchase credits at a lower price before new requirements kick in. Voluntary carbon markets may be smaller than the compliance markets but they are more flexible and innovative in terms of finance, monitoring and methodologies.

GLOBAL CARBON CREDIT MARKETS

Domestic carbon pricing initiatives have been strengthened as jurisdictions around the world adopt more ambitious mitigation targets and introduce associated policy tools. This is particularly crucial as 2020 and 2021 are critical years for countries to ramp up their emission reduction pledges under the Paris Agreement, with many countries, regions and cities in the past year declaring a “climate emergency”.

Restrictions due to the COVID-19 pandemic have led to a global economic downturn, with implications for climate action more broadly. The economic crisis triggered by COVID-19 has led to large shifts in energy consumption and consumer behavior, challenging the economic foundations of many countries. As communities start to bounce back and conversations turn to recovery and stimulus packages, countries should consider how measures can be designed to best support a transition to a low-carbon economy. Measures for kickstarting economies could be designed in such a way that they generate jobs and infrastructure that support the transition to net zero emissions by the mid-century.

The pandemic is testing the resilience of carbon pricing initiatives. Prices in some established ETSs have fallen in line with reduced economic activity resulting from COVID-19 restrictions. Furthermore, some jurisdictions have delayed measures to strengthen their carbon pricing instruments and have extended compliance deadlines due to the restrictions. Key meetings—most notably COP 26—as well as international aviation and maritime meetings, have been postponed, delaying decisions on the rules around international transactions and markets. Additionally, COVID-19 has led to increased uncertainty for the demand for international credits with airlines questioning the impact of COVID-19 on their offsetting obligations under the Carbon Offset and Reduction Scheme for International Aviation (CORSIA).

Despite the social and economic upheaval, many jurisdictions and private entities are accelerating their efforts on climate action.

COP 25 highlighted the urgency and need to ramp up ambition as Parties work on updating their nationally determined contributions (NDCs). Furthermore, the Chilean COP presidency announced that 120 Parties to the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC) are working towards achieving net zero CO₂ emissions by 2050 as part of the Climate Ambition Alliance. As of April 1, 2020, Denmark, France, New Zealand, Sweden and the UK have built on this pledge and enshrined a net zero CO₂ emissions target into legislation, while Suriname and Bhutan are already carbon negative. In addition, 15 subnational regions, 398 cities, 786 businesses and 16 investors have also indicated that they are working towards achieving net zero emission targets.

Carbon pricing initiatives are expanding across national and state lines, with increased cooperation among jurisdictions to align their carbon markets. In Europe, the Swiss ETS and the EU ETS became linked on January 1, 2020, allowing covered entities in the Swiss ETS to be able to use allowances from the EU ETS for compliance, and vice versa. Following its departure from the EU and ultimately the EU ETS, the UK is considering implementing its own ETS and linking it to the EU ETS.

Governments raised more than $45 billion from carbon pricing in 2019. 2019 saw a slower yearly increase in revenues than 2018 (US$1 billion compared to US$11 billion) largely as a consequence of the EU ETS price stabilization in 2019. Almost half of the revenues were dedicated to environmental or broader development projects, and more than 40 percent went to the general budget. The remaining share was dedicated to tax cuts and direct transfers.

CARBON CREDITING MECHANISMS

The Kyoto crediting mechanisms (the Clean Development Mechanism and Joint Implementation) have been responsible for almost three-quarters of all credits issued to date, with 70 percent of those coming from projects in industrial gases, renewable energy and fugitive emissions. The CDM is the biggest issuer, responsible for just over 50 percent of all credits ever issued. Despite not issuing anything for the last four years, due to the sheer volume of credit issuances before 2015, JI still remains the second largest issuer of carbon credits at around 22 percent of the cumulative global total. Certain types of mitigation activities tend to be more popular than others for a variety of reasons, including lower project development costs, higher emission reduction potential—hence more credits, lower MRV costs and risks, and higher desirability by carbon credit buyers. There is also a tendency for major crediting mechanisms to generate most of their carbon credits from one or two major sectors, with the Kyoto crediting mechanisms, for instance, focusing on industrial emissions and renewables. On the other end of the scale, the low credit issuance by sectors such as transport and other land-use projects—which combined makes up less than 2 percent of the total—highlights the challenges in developing these types of projects, which often have complex mitigation quantification approaches and high MRV costs. The sectoral foci of the CDM and JI has also led to a geographic trend, with most carbon credits are from East Asia and the Pacific (44 percent) and Europe and Central Asia (23 percent). However, the continuation of the CDM beyond the end of the second commitment of the Kyoto Protocol at the end of this year is unclear. The uncertain future of the Kyoto crediting mechanisms and rise in crediting activity in different sectors and from different mechanisms show a different crediting landscape than that established thirty years ago.

An inspection of historical global crediting activity levels reveal that crediting activities increased rapidly until 2012 before crashing in 2013, but have stabilized since 2015, coinciding with the adoption of the Paris Agreement. The spike in activities in 2012 reflects the rush to register CDM projects and issue Kyoto credits before the close of the first compliance period of the Kyoto Protocol to avoid the various limitations that were being introduced for allowing post-2012 CDM units (Certified Emission Reductions—CERs) to enter the EU ETS—the biggest buyer of Kyoto credits at the time. The general lack of demand for Kyoto credits after 2012 was largely triggered by the lack of demand by EU ETS facilities as a result of the financial crisis and oversupply of EU allowances. This in turn led to a drop in the price of CERs. In turn, other carbon markets also moved to reduce the number of Kyoto credits allowed in their system. Demand for CERs has not kept pace with their issuance, resulting in a surplus of CERs on the market. The steadily declining number of CDM credit issuances over the past years as new crediting mechanisms start to come online suggest an end of the CDM/JI dominance of the global crediting market, especially since the future of these credits under the Paris Agreement remain uncertain. That being said, any positive decision on the transition of the Kyoto crediting mechanisms to Article 6.4 could see a spike in issuances.

However, interest and activity in the voluntary market is growing as companies purchase voluntary credits through independent crediting mechanisms. Independent mechanisms have grown significantly over the past years and in 2019 were responsible for 65 percent of the annual credits issued. This is close to a four-fold increase compared to 17 percent in 2015. Most notably, Verified Carbon Standard (VCS) issued more credits than the CDM in 2019 (Figure 3.4). This is the first time that another crediting mechanism has issued more credits in a year than the CDM since 2006.

Crediting under the Paris Agreement

Article 6 of the Paris Agreement provides the mandate for countries to transfer mitigation outcomes, either through Article 6.2 or 6.4 in order to meet their NDCs. Two key issues arise when it comes to international crediting: double counting and the impact of selling mitigation outcomes on the seller country. Firstly, provisions would need to be in place to ensure that the emission reductions in the seller country should only be counted toward the buyer country’s NDC target. They should not also be counted toward the achievement of the seller country’s NDC target. Secondly, the seller country needs to be aware that it might need to tighten its mitigation pledge. Even if the reductions or removals took place outside of the scope of a country’s NDC commitment or is not needed to meet its current NDC commitment, it may have a cost on the country’s ability to meet future NDC commitments. Unlike crediting under the Kyoto Protocol, as all Parties to the Paris Agreement have NDC commitments, there is an opportunity cost of selling credits under Article 6 that Parties will need to assess. This will also be a relevant concern for a country if voluntary crediting is taking place within their jurisdiction. The impact this will have on its ability to achieve current or future NDC targets would also need to be considered, provided voluntary crediting mechanisms follow similar rules on exclusion for double counting.

INDIAN CARBON CREDIT MARKET

National Overview

India is the world’s third-largest greenhouse gas (GHG) emitter and second most populous country. India’s total emissions in 2019 were 132 million tonnes of carbon dioxide equivalent and emissions have been on the decline for the first time in forty years. The country’s per capita emissions remain low, at 1.94 tCO₂ /capita – less than half the global average of 4.2 tCO₂ /capita. India has grown into an economic powerhouse with an average growth rate of 6.7% GDP over the last decade. With the COVID-19 economic slowdown, India’s GDP is expected to contract by 4.5% to 10% in 2020 but is expected to recover by 2025. Renewable energy (solar, wind, and biomass power) accounted for over 24% of India’s total installed electricity capacity as of July 2020. Factoring in large hydro and nuclear, India’s non-fossil fuels totaled 38% of the country’s installed capacity. Renewables are growing faster than fossil fuels with the share of renewable energy capacity increasing from 13% to 24% (36 GW in July 2015 to 88 GW in July 2020). While thermal power still accounts for the majority of India’s power supply, the share of thermal capacity declined by 8%, from 70% to 62% (192 GW thermal capacity of 276 GW total installed capacity in July 2015 as compared to 231 GW thermal capacity of 372 GW total installed capacity in July 2020). While the Indian government recognizes the need to expand efforts for creating an “additional carbon sink” of 2.5 to 3 billion tonnes of carbon dioxide equivalent, India’s forest and tree cover has increased by only 5,188 km², yielding a 42.6 million tonne carbon sink increase.

CARBON MARKET SIMULATION IN INDIA

As part of its ongoing efforts to help policymakers and civil society address climate change while ensuring economic prosperity and sustainable development, WRI is undertaking a carbon market simulation across 30-40 large companies in India.

Objective

The simulation aims to help businesses demonstrate climate leadership and leverage the opportunities from such mechanisms to meet their emission reduction goals. The simulation also aims to build business readiness towards a potential carbon market, especially amongst the medium, small and micro enterprises (MSMEs) part of value chains of the participating companies. Learnings and industry feedback from this virtual market would also help provide concrete policy recommendations for a potential carbon market in India that is efficient, sustainable, facilitates accelerated emission reductions at the least cost to the society and helps India achieve its Nationally Determined targets.

Background

India’s international climate commitments include a reduction goal in greenhouse gas (GHG) emission intensity of GDP by 33-35% until 2030 (compared to 2005 levels) and a target to increase the share of non-fossil fuel energy sources to 40% by 2030. Additionally, India also targets to install over 175 GW of renewable energy by 2022, with a recent announcement that India will have 450 GW of renewables.

Carbon Pricing is one of the key tools to facilitate a low-carbon transition. Carbon markets and international voluntary cooperation are set to play a critical role in meeting climate targets at the lowest costs. Pilots and simulations in emerging economies such as China, Mexico and Brazil are indicative of imminent market-based mechanisms globally. While an implicit carbon tax (national clean energy cess) was implemented in India, additional considerations on a cap and trade scheme are being made to accelerate progress towards India’s NDCs. India has signed up and is now a participant to the World Bank’s Partnership for Market Readiness (PMR). Under the PMR, India plans to explore and pilot new market-based mechanisms (MBMs) in Waste and MSME sectors and establish an integrated data management and registry for India’s GHG emissions.

Approach

To support evidence-based design and implementation of a potential carbon market in India, WRI India aims to work with industry, policy makers, as well as civil society, through a carbon market simulation anchored across 30-40 large businesses (including sectoral leaders) covering about 50-60% of India’s total industry related emissions.

The simulation consists of two phases:

- Phase I: Design and Scoping – Completed

The design phase constituted secondary research of existing market mechanisms and policy landscape globally and domestically and extensive consultations with global experts and sectoral leaders from Indian Industry. Under this, WRI Experts contextualized learnings from four emissions markets operating at city, state, regional and international levels, to India in terms of i) their goals; ii) design; iii) outcomes and impacts; iv) challenges; and v) international linking.

This, along with an understanding of the past and ongoing market mechanisms and policies in India, provided insights on the opportunities, challenges, design considerations for a carbon market in India. Consultations with key stakeholders including business leaders in the Indian industry helped shape the proposed design for the simulation based on sectoral challenges and opportunities.

- Phase II: Implementation – Ongoing

In consultation with participating companies, the ongoing phase entails finalization of design, targets and implementation modalities for the simulation, followed by three trading cycles under the simulation. The broad components of the implementation phase include:

1. Company Onboarding

- Closely work with the participating companies to confirm baseline data, receive feedback and finalize targets, Monitoring, Reporting and Verification (MRV) and simulation design.

2. Trading Platform & Registry Setup

- Setting up of Trading Platform and Registry platforms based on final design of the simulation

3. Simulation Launch

- Workshop to disseminate operational information and timelines for reporting and trading
- Demo on MRV form and trading platform
- Technical assistance to companies on monitoring and reporting to ensure the implementation of MRV framework and compliance with the simulation

4. Trading Cycles

- At the end of a compliance period, the regulated entities would be required to surrender one allowance for every tonne of emissions for which they are accountable. Allowance shortfall or in excess of target would be traded during the trading cycles in (April, July and October 2020)
- Measurement of outcomes - Based on the trading of the allowances, WRI would monitor and document the performance of the market on reductions achieved, price stability, trading volume, challenges, and learnings

Planned Outcomes:

1. Carbon Market Planning and Implementation Guide for the Indian context based on -
 - Global learnings, best practices and trends from Phase I
 - The learnings from the simulation exercise and relevant recommendations for the Indian context to support policymaking
 - Feedback from participating companies on challenges, opportunities, sector specific design recommendations
2. Roundtable with key stakeholders, including industry, research organizations, think tanks and policymakers to present findings from simulation and recommendations for a carbon market in India
3. Capacity Building: WRI India will support all participating businesses and the MSMEs within their supply chains with research, knowledge, and findings, by hosting a series of webinars and information-sharing sessions with companies, thereby building institutional capacity within large corporates and MSMEs during the implementation phase.

INDIA'S PARIS AGREEMENT TARGETS

In 2015, 196 nations came together to approve the Paris Agreement during the 21st session of the Conference of the Parties (COP21) of the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC). The Paris Agreement aims to limit global temperature rise to well below 2°C and to make best efforts to hold warming to 1.5°C. Countries as part of the Paris Agreement submitted Nationally Determined Contributions (NDCs) detailing plans to cut emissions to meet the global temperature goal.²¹ Ratifying the Paris Agreement in 2016, India's pledge lays out a comprehensive approach to limit climate impacts while fostering economic growth. India's pledge includes the following commitments:

- To put forward and further propagate a healthy and sustainable way of living based on traditions and values of conservation and moderation.
- To adopt a path that is climate-friendly and cleaner than the one followed hitherto by others at a corresponding level of economic development.
- To reduce the emissions intensity of its GDP by 33 to 35% by 2030 from 2005 level.
- To achieve 40% cumulative electric installed power capacity from non-fossil-fuel energy sources by 2030 with the help of technology transfer and low-cost international finance including support from the Green Climate Fund.
- To create an additional carbon sink of 2.5 to 3 billion tonnes of carbon dioxide equivalent through additional forest and tree cover by 2030.
- To better adapt to climate change by enhancing investments in development programs in sectors vulnerable to climate change, particularly agriculture, water resources, the Himalayan region, coastal regions, health, and disaster management.

MOBILIZING GREEN INVESTMENT

Over $250 billion in investment is needed between 2023 and 2030 to achieve India's target of 450 GW of clean energy by 2030. In the near term, India needs over $80 billion in investments for renewable energy infrastructure (without transmission lines) to meet its 175 GW by 2022 target.

India is working to provide funding for clean energy through government programs, private investments, and international climate finance. However, public funds by themselves will not produce the capital required; catalytic finance is needed to help expand the clean energy market. Catalytic finance leverages limited public funds to bring in greater private investment. Catalytic financial mechanisms and institutional facilities such as "green windows" can be effective in transforming the India clean energy market. The Indian Renewable Energy Development Agency Limited (IREDA), a leading financial institution, is planning to pilot the first green window in India to develop and implement catalytic finance solutions. India's support for the green window could attract more concessional funding and open up the Indian clean energy market to new classes of international investors.

Green bonds are another beneficial investment instrument. IREDA and National Thermal Power Corporation (NTPC) have used masala bonds to increase the number of green bonds in the market. By 2019, Rs. 52,000 crore ($7 billion) of green bonds were issued in India, amounting to roughly 20 issuances. Apart from IREDA and NTPC, Greenko, ReNew Power, Azure Power, Tata Cleantech and Adani Green Energy have been integral to issuing green bonds.

Power distribution companies (DISCOMs) have been adversely affected due to short-term power demand declines and high cash losses amid the COVID-19 pandemic. The DISCOM debt has risen to Rs. 1.3 lakh crore ($18 billion). Market reports suggest that debt could increase to Rs. 4.5 lakh crore ($66 billion) in FY 2021. As a part of the economic stimulus measures, the national government has extended a Rs. 90,000 crore ($13 billion) liquidity line to DISCOMs. The loan will help DISCOMs pay outstanding dues owed to power generation companies through March 2020. Power Finance Corporation and Rural Electrification Corporation (both public sector institutions) will co-finance the loan.

In the wake of the COVID-19 economic slowdown capital investments will prioritize economic development and job creation. The economic recovery is an opportunity to increase public investment in clean energy. Historically low oil prices represent an opportunity to reduce fossil fuel subsidies in an effort to free up public capital and redefine future energy consumption trends.

GLOBAL QUALITY MANAGEMENT SYSTEM (QMS) MARKET: INTRODUCTION

A quality management system (QMS) is defined as a formal system that documents processes, procedures, and responsibilities to achieve quality policies and objectives. A quality management system (QMS) helps to coordinate and direct an organization's activities to meet customer and regulatory requirements and improve its effectiveness and efficiency on a continuous basis. ISO 9001:2015, the international standard specifying requirements for quality management systems (QMS), is the most prominent standard of quality management systems.

Increasing need for Standardization/ Benchmarking for Defining, Improving, and Controlling Processes is expected to drive the Quality Management System (QMS) Market

Quality is the key to a company's success; quality management systems enable organizations to keep up with and meet current quality levels, meet the consumer's requirement for quality, retain employees through competitive compensation programs, and keep up with the latest technology. QMS has helped in reducing waste, preventing mistakes, lowering cost, facilitating and identifying training opportunities, and communicating readiness to produce consistent results. The quality management system market is expected to grow across the globe with the Industry 4.0 revolution.

Emphasis on Documentation & Knowledge with Regard to Certifications

Owners and managers do not have adequate understanding of the ISO 9000 certification process or of the quality standards themselves. Many business owners have been known to direct their company's resources toward ISO 9000 registration, only to find that their incomplete understanding of the process and its requirements results in wasted time and effort. Lack of knowledge and huge efforts to manage the document related to quality management would hamper the growth of the market.

COVID 19 Impact on Global Quality Management System (QMS) Market

COVID 19 is expected to have an adverse impact on the manufacturing as well as service industry across the globe. The major usage of quality management systems (QMS) is in manufacturing industry which is adversely affected by the disease. The restriction on production imposed by governments has impacted the growth of the quality management system (QMS) market.

Today, more than ever, the use of standards is very important to ensure that products and services meet the requirements. Standards can help in mitigating the negative effects of the global pandemic in multiple ways, as outlined below:

COVID-19 Implications and the Role of Quality and Standards

Medical equipment

- Product standards for medical equipment (respiratory protective devices) and protective equipment (medical gloves, medical face masks, personal eye protection, etc.) are particularly important to ensure that the equipment meets the requirements and is reliable and that safety and medical personnel is sufficiently protected.
- Acceptance of equivalence of standards among trade partners important to mobilize medical resources globally and meet the soaring demands for medical equipment within a short time period.

- Harmonization of standards for medical equipment at regional or global level could increase accessibility to essential medical products and therefore improve capacity of health authorities to respond rapidly to public health crisis like COVID-19 pandemic.

(Medical) laboratory standards

- Medical laboratory standards (e.g. ISO 15189, ISO 22367, ISO 14971, ISO 20395) are important to evaluate the safety and efficacy of diagnostic tests and to ensure that medical tests to detect SARS-COV-2 provide accurate and reliable results.
- Testing laboratory standards (e.g. ISO 17025) ensure that product test for medical equipment are performed accordingly and provide reliable results. Providing quality, highvolume testing capabilities should allow us to respond effectively to the COVID-19 pandemic.

Business continuity and emergency management

- Standards for security and resilience, including business continuity management (e.g. ISO 22301, ISO 22395) and emergency management (e.g. ISO 22320, ISO 22316) have become evidently important throughout the past weeks. The further dissemination and application of such standards will be particularly important in the short-term but remain a priority in the medium- and long-term.
- Standards for risk management (e.g. ISO 31000), intends to serve as a guide for the design, implementation and maintenance of risk management.
- Management standards (e.g. ISO 9001, ISO 13485) help to prepare for managing crisis situations better. Enterprises that have quality management sINystems in place are therefore better prepared to cope with the negative effects of the crisis

Health and safety

- Safety standards, such as ISO 45001, a standard for management systems of occupational health and safety which aims at improving employee safety, reducing workplace risks and creating better, safer working conditions are particularly important to prevent the spread of COVID-19 within organizations.
- Food safety and hygiene management (e.g. ISO 22000, HACCP) is important, particularly as the emergence of SARS-COV-2 is said to be caused by a lack thereof.

Environmental and waste management

- Environmental and waste management standards (e.g. ISO 14000 series) will become important in managing the increased waste caused by the increase use of single-use protective equipment (protective clothes, single-use gloves, medical masks, etc.). It is particularly important for health facilities to adhere to guidelines on bio-medical waste generated from quarantine health facilities to stop spread of infection.

Access to standards, Standard Operating Procedures (SOP), Good Manufacturing Practices (GMP), etc. are sometimes restricted by the need to costly purchase them. In the case of a pandemic like COVID-19, access to such standards and practices needs to be immediate to ensure widest and fastest adoption of such practices. Many standards organizations (ISO, CEN/CENELEC, ASTM, SNV, BSI, etc.) have made relevant standards available free of charge to support the fight against COVID-19

SAFETY AUDIT TO IDENTIFY POTENTIAL HAZARDS IN INDUSTRIAL OPERATIONS

The audit normally refers to checking of financial status of the company. Though the word ‘Audit’ has traditionally been associated with financial accounting procedures, since 80’s it has come into common usage in India in the field of industrial safety, industrial health, and environmental health and so on. The term ‘Safety Audit’ is commonly found within the safety jargon. However, its full meaning, as well as the practical implications, of the term are not fully appreciated.

It is now recognised that accidents arising from unsuspected risks can result not only in injuries to employees and damage to plant and machinery, but also can have far reaching effects on the commercial viability of a company. Almost always, as an aftermath of such accidents, resources of manpower and money are made available to determine causes and implement remedial action to prevent a recurrence. It may be pointed out here that if the same resources were utilised for the purpose of identifying the potential risks and eliminating them before incidents occur, reliability and profitability of the company would be increased. Everyone who is, in a way concerned with occupational safety and health would agree that it is essential to perform ‘Safety Audits’ of a workplace in order to detect any dangers which might be present there.

Safety Audits can be carried out for determining the overall status of safety, health, and environment of an organisation. It can also be conducted for determining the performance of a specific activity, for example: Preventive Maintenance (engineering department), Laboratory Inspection and Testing (product quality), Environment Audit (gaseous, liquid, and solid), Energy Audit (electrical, fuel), Fire Safety Audit, Building Safety Audit, Hospital Safety Audit, etc.

Safety Audit is a systematic critical examination of an industrial operation in its entirety to identify potential hazards and levels of risk. In other words, it is a study aimed to detect any dangers which might be present in an industrial operation. It subjects each area of a company activity to a systematic critical examination with the object of minimising loss. It aims to disclose the strengths and the weaknesses, the main areas of vulnerability or risk. It is a practical procedure whereby a workplace and the processes carried on therein, are examined with a view to ascertain what hazard to health and safety may be in existence. It is a useful technique to test the effectiveness of a company’s safety programme. Hence, ‘Safety Audit’ is a form of risk analysis and evaluation in which a systematic investigation is carried out in order to determine the extent to which the conditions are present that provide for the development and implementation of an effective and efficient safety policy.

We must have a method, which will give a reasonable indication of how well a company’s safety programme is working, in all its aspects, i.e., how hazards are being recognised and controlled, how unsafe acts are being eliminated and how accidents are being avoided. It may be reminded here that injury frequency, cost of accidents, loss due to fire and explosions, number and types of injuries, etc. are not always related to the quality of an employer’s safety effort. What is needed, therefore, is a method, which will give a reasonable indication of how well a company’s safety programme is working in all its aspects and how potential accidents are being avoided without using only failures as a yardstick.

Kerala emerges as energy efficient state, Rajasthan stands second

The Government of India has made excellent strides in Energy Efficiency over the last 15 years since the enactment of the ground-breaking Energy Conservation Act in 2001. This Act was instrumental in the formation of the Bureau of Energy Efficiency (BEE) and the State Designated Agencies (SDA) in the states. It also put in place the much-needed institutional framework for formulating energy efficiency policies and implementing them. Since then, BEE has developed the Energy Conservation Building Code, a fairly successful Standards and Labelling programme for the most energy-intensive appliances and an ambitious & innovative industrial energy efficiency programme, Perform Achieve and Trade (PAT). Another milestone is NITI Aayog’s energy scenario modelling tool India Energy Security Scenarios (IESS) 2047 which offers a platform to facilitate academic and policy discourse about potential pathways for the Indian energy sector. There is substantial potential to impact energy efficiency and reduce energy demand by 2047.

The first edition of the State Energy Efficiency Index assesses state policies and programmes aimed at improving energy efficiency in buildings, industries, municipalities, transportation, agriculture and electricity distribution (DISCOMs). The composition of the Index has been developed taking into account sector-wise energy consumption, energy saving potential and states’ influence in implementing energy efficiency. It examines states’ policies and regulations, financing mechanisms, institutional capacity, adoption of energy efficiency and the resultant energy savings achieved. The Index has 63 indicators in all, 59 across buildings, industry, municipalities, transport, agriculture and DISCOMs; and 4 cross-cutting indicators

In each sector, energy efficiency indicators have been developed to measure the impact of state initiatives in driving energy efficiency in states. The indicators are both qualitative and quantitative, which include outcome-based indicators as well to signify realisation of the intended performance outcomes, to the extent possible, for various energy efficiency policies and programs.

Andhra Pradesh, Kerala, Maharashtra, Punjab and Rajasthan have done exceedingly well in adopting energy efficiency measures in the first ever serious attempt to map energy efficiency attained by the States. Kerala, with 77 points, leads among the States and Union Territories, followed by Rajasthan (68) and Andhra Pradesh (66.5) in the first edition of the State Energy Efficiency Preparedness Index, brought out jointly by the Bureau of Energy Efficiency (BEE) and NITI Aayog.

These three States together with Maharashtra and Punjab — also scored above 60 — were designated as Front Runner States in the survey, which assessed State policies and programmes aimed at improving energy efficiency in five key sectors such as buildings, industries, municipalities, transportation, agriculture and electricity distribution. The other categories were Achiever (60-50), Contender (49-30) and Aspirant (below 30). For better comparison, the States were classified according to their energy consumption into four different groups. The Index has been developed taking into account sector-wise energy consumption, energy saving potential and States' influence in implementing energy efficiency. The Index examines States' policies and regulations, financing mechanisms, institutional capacity, adoption of energy efficiency measures and energy savings achieved. The Index has a total of 63 indicators — 59 across buildings, industry, municipalities, transport, agriculture and Discoms, and 4 cross-cutting indicators.

Long-term relations are built on trust and continuous meeting with the requirements of the customers.

4. Creating awareness to reduce carbon emissions

- Behavioral Changes – Its often noticed that the tiniest of things makes a huge difference. For example, lighting up a typical floor of a building overnight can waste enough energy to prepare 1,000 cups of coffee. Switching the lights off, also for other electrical appliances; like the copy machine, printer, generator/inverter etc is actually an effort to reduce the amount of emissions on a daily basis.
- Recycling –Unwanted waste produced in running a business should be recycled. One of the best ways to start is by discouraging staff to keep a bin at their desks. Instead, providing them with the recycling bins for all kinds of office waste like glass, metal, paper and food etc at a common place. This will encourage a holy attitude towards saving the waste across your business.
- Greener Commutes – General populous drive or ride to their offices, by their own vehicle. This is ultimately inefficient and leads to a major amount of carbon emissions, not to mention traffic jams. To realise its severity towards society; businesses can persuade their staff to start car-pooling to work; to use public commute, or to walk or cycle to work, if at all possible. Businesses could even offer incentives to employees who have come up with greener ways to commute. Installing bike racks and sheds like facilities for the benefit of those who make an effort in this direction can prove to be a good push.
- Efficient Heating – There are a few ways to ensure that any heating system for a building, is working efficiently. These include proper system of insulation, blocking the drafts, and ensuring that radiators are never covered over. It is important to make sure that offices are never warming up so bad that your staff feels the need to open the windows.
- Reduce & Reuse – Office furniture and supplies do not consume energy themselves but the energy gets used in their manufacturing which sums up to a huge amount of consumption. One way to reduce your carbon footprint is, ensuring that all office supplies were sourced and manufactured in ethical and sustainable ways. Recycling the paper and using vegetable-based inks could be the best when it comes to the paperwork; & all office furniture should be made using sustainable wood.
- Offsetting – An organization can reduce their environmental impacts by offsetting their carbon emissions and wisely come down under their permissible limit.

At all cadres of operation, there are plenty of opportunities for businesses to reduce their carbon emissions. Most of these might seem obvious or even insignificant, but in the long-term, even the smallest of efforts from every business and organization can make a positive global impact.

OUR SERVICES PORTFOLIO

- 1) Climate Change Advisory Services
- 2) Carbon Credits Trading
- 3) Business Excellence Advisory & Training Services
- 4) Electrical Safety Audits

1. CLIMATE CHANGE ADVISORY SERVICES

Our business approach towards carbon neutrality involves our operations in form of carbon credit trading and/or climate change advisory services. Carbon Neutrality means having a balance between emitting GHGs and avoiding/absorbing GHGs from the atmosphere in carbon sinks. Removing carbon dioxide from the atmosphere and then storing it is known as carbon sequestration. In order to achieve net zero emissions, worldwide greenhouse gas emissions will have to be counterbalanced by carbon sequestration. The main aim behind development of this concept and related mechanisms is to encourage use of sources of renewable energy and discourage the use of conventional sources of energy which lead to massive emission of GHGs in order to protect the environment.

We offer Carbon Neutrality services to various industries like - Bio-Methanation project, Renewable Power Project (Wind, Solar, Hydro, Geo Thermal), Waste Management - Landfill project, Compost formation project, Energy Efficiency Project, Cookstove Project, Water Purification Project. We provide end to end solution to achieve carbon neutrality.

The business of climate change advisory services involves assistance for validation, registration, verification, issuance and trading of eligible Carbon Credits Projects as CDM (Clean Development Mechanism) /VCS (Verified Carbon Standard) Project. This involves following process:

- a) Validation
- b) Preparation of project idea note/project concept note
- c) Seeking Host Country Approval, assist in arranging stake holder consultation
- d) Assistance during Validation and Registration of the project
- e) Project pre-verification and preparation of monitoring data sheet
- f) Preparation of monitoring report and assistance during verification for first verification
- g) Reporting

a) Validation

We primarily identify any viable project capable of generating carbon credits. Our team does a thorough verification of the project to evaluate its operation and its possibilities to generate carbon credits. Moreover we also provide consultancy to clients for the necessary initiatives to be taken in registration of various carbon credit projects, which may help them to move towards carbon neutrality. We help organizations understand and adopt different concepts and mechanisms to reduce level of GHG emissions. We also assist in evaluating whether the project can be validated, based on the available and approved methodology or the existing methodology could be suitably applied or modified for validation of project.

b) Preparation of Project Idea Note/Project Concept Note (PCN)

Our Team holds discussions with senior officers at the project sites with the objective of understanding the project, collecting necessary data and completing the basic PCN document of the project. We conduct Site visit to understand the project and collect all relevant information. Thereafter, our team prepares detailed guidance note on how the project can be taken up under various GHG programs. Subsequently, we assess the feasibility of the project and submit a report to Project Commissioner whose decision about the feasibility of the project based on the submitted report and continuing with the activity shall be final.

c) Seeking Host Country Approval, assist in arranging stake holder consultation

As per UNFCCC procedures companies would invite local stakeholders' for a meeting at the project site to appraise them about the project and seek their comments. Our company sends its representative (preferably team leader) to the project site during the meeting who shall help companies in answering the queries, explaining the project and also draft the minutes of the meeting. Besides, as per the UNFCCC norm, companies would invite international stakeholders' comments on the CDM project. Our team shall arrange to post the Project Development Design (PDD) on Validator's website for public comments and help the clients to prepare answers to the queries posted by various parties, if any, to meet the validation requirements.

Our company present the Project development design of the project to the Ministry of Environment, Forests and Climate Change (MoEF&CC) which is the National CDM Authority (NCDMA), after fulfilling all secretarial requirements and assist companies in getting approval from the NCDMA, Government of India (GoI). Our representatives also make the presentation during the meeting at NCDMA, attend the meeting with client executive there and help prepare the replies, if any.

d) Assistance during Validation and Registration of the project

Our company submit the PDD to the validator for the validation of the project. We undertake visit to the site at least 1 working day before the validation visit to see the preparedness and assist project executives in the preparations. Our team provide answers to the questions/clarifications raised by the validator at various occasions for successful validation of the project.

Registration of Project under GHG mechanism

Our Company provides services which help project owners to get their projects registered/verified under following various GHG program mentioned below. We offer on time, quality services with 100% assurance of successful delivery.

- Gold Standard (GS CER & GS VER Projects): A standard for creating high-quality emission reductions projects in the Clean Development Mechanism and Voluntary Carbon Market. It was designed to ensure that carbon credits are not only real and verifiable but they make measurable contributions to Sustainable Development Goals worldwide.
- Voluntary Carbon Standards (VCS): This is a standard for voluntary carbon offset market. Based on the Kyoto Protocol's Clean Development Mechanism guidelines, VCS establishes criteria for validating, measuring, and monitoring carbon offset projects.
- Clean Development Mechanism: This is one of the Market Based Instruments defined in the Kyoto Protocol that provides for emissions reduction projects which generate Certified Emission Reduction units (CERs) which may be traded in emissions trading schemes.
- Programme Of Activities: Under a Programme of Activities (PoA) it is possible to register the coordinated implementation of a policy, measure or goal that leads to emission reduction. Once a PoA is registered, an unlimited number of Component Project Activities (CPAs) can be added without undergoing the complete CDM project cycle. Similarly PoAs can also be created in Gold Standard.
- IREC: International REC, driven by RECS International, Netherland It is mechanism which helps to register international projects to trade the green attribute associated with the generation of the power. These types of the certificates help the industries to make their consumed electricity green by purchasing the green attribute. This is voluntary in nature.
- Airport Carbon Accreditation (up to level 4+): ACA i.e Airport Carbon Accreditation is a mechanism governed by International Airport Council which allocate the levels to the different airports based on the work being done toward Carbon neutrality and taking care the carbon foot prints.

e) Project pre-verification and preparation of monitoring data sheet

Our team help to prepare the datasheet according to the requirement set out in the PDD. We visit the site shortly after the registration of the project on hearing from the client and appraise the project executives. We also review the data collection system and suggest necessary modifications, if any. We give a preliminary pre verification report containing the monitoring datasheet. Thereafter, we undertake another visit after client has taken corrective measures and undertake a pre verification exercise.

f) Preparation of monitoring report and assistance during verification for first verification

Thereafter we perform agreed-upon procedures to compare the data/ information gathered by project executives as per the monitoring datasheet as suggested and communicate our findings to the client. Our representative also remain present during the verification by DOE for first verification to assist the client.

Carbon Footprinting - Carbon footprint or GHG Inventory is the total amount of Green House Gases (GHGs) released into the atmosphere due to a particular human activity using the Green House Warming potential values of the GHGs.

g) Reporting

- We work closely with the client to accomplish the registration process and make the projects eligible for trading of carbon credits. A designated Project In-charge of the Client who is responsible for the overall coordination and project development will play coordinating role in dissemination of the Consultant's outputs, facilitating discussions, and ensuring required reactions and responses to the Consultant.
- Sometimes we prepare Issue Papers highlighting issues that could become critical for the timely completion of the Project and that require attention from the client.
- Regular communication with the client and the Project Director/Coordinator is required in addition to all key communications. This may take the form of telephone/teleconferencing, emails, faxes, and occasional Meetings.

2. CARBON CREDITS TRADING

Voluntary Carbon Offsetting

Carbon offsetting means compensating for the carbon dioxide pollution one is making by preventing the same amount of pollution from happening somewhere else.

Carbon offsetting is the way to compensate for the damage done by an individual or a company by reducing or absorbing emitting carbon dioxide through any activity..

Once the organisations have decided to acquire carbon offsets for their carbon neutrality goals, next big hurdle is to select the right kind of carbon offset.

In addition some certification standards like Gold Standard Foundation (GS) and Global Carbon Council (GCC) also map, track, verify and certify additional impacts created by the projects with respect to Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs).

Our company conducts all the due diligence to ensure that client gets the right kind of offsets from the right project that suits their organization's interest and priorities.

Trading of Carbon credits

Carbon trading is an exchange of carbon credits between nations or parties that is, designed to lessen the overall carbon dioxide emissions. It is an innovative way that takes advantage of collaboration among countries or parties that have higher carbon dioxide emissions than the set limit with those that emit less carbon. Fortunately for developing countries like India, Brazil, China and others, carbon trading gives everyone a trading opportunity. This is achieved by selling of the carbon credits earned by reducing carbon emissions and making money along with helping the environment become safe.

As a developing country, India is a part of Kyoto Protocol developed under the UNFCCC- the United Nation Framework Convention on Climate change, but our country don't have binding targets on the amount of carbon released that many developed countries have. Thus, any attempt at reducing carbon and producing a positive output earns "Carbon Credits" for the businesses that does so "Carbon Credits". These carbon credits can be transferred to the buyer of carbon credits which generally include companies in rich developed countries inlike Europe, Germany, North America and UK which are facing issues in replacing their polluting units into keeping their carbon emissions within the limits set by Kyoto protocol.

CDM- Clean Development Mechanism aims at investing in emission reductioning projects in developing countries and allows our country to benefit from selling carbon credits to industrialized countries. India and China have surplus credits to offer countries that have a deficit. Thus, emitters in these developing countries that can successfully reduce their emissions at a cheap rate can, in turn, sell their surplus allowances to emitters with higher reduction costs. Waste disposal units, plantation companies, chemical plants, municipal corporations and even small investors can sell the carbon credits and make money.

Process Involved in Carbon Credit Trading

Carbon credits are held in digital form such that they may be traded over the counter. Our marketing team is deployed to find potential buyers of carbon credits in various countries and we attempt to find suitable seller for each type of credit requirement raised by potential buyer. We study the project requirements, credibility, quantum and profile of the buyer to offer the suitable credits at a competitive price, thereby making our margins. We have various projects registered with us hold carbon credits and once we find a suitable buyer for their credits, the issuance fees for the said projects are paid to make them tradable. Apart from registered projects in our portfolio we may also look for sellers across the globe with requisite carbon credits. Before executing any trade we ensure that the credits are Real, Quantifiable, 3rd party verified etc. We give first priority to sell all our carbon credits which are generated from our services number 1 - Climate Change Advisory Services & in case buyers do need credits out of that portfolio then we provide credits by sourcing them from our network of suppliers.

ELECTRICAL SAFETY AUDIT

An Electrical Safety Audit (ESA) is a systematic approach to evaluate potential hazards and to recommend suggestions for improvements. It is an important tool for identifying deterioration of standards, areas of risks or vulnerability, hazards and potential accidents in plants for determining actions to minimize hazards. Electrical Safety Audit is performed by enquiry, inspection, testing and verification. Electrical Safety Audits are conducted by knowledgeable and experienced professionals who assist clients in reducing risk and help to ensure compliance with applicable standards and Regulations.

Process of Electrical Safety Audit:-

The Electrical Safety Audit is carried out in a professional and streamlined manner by our team.

This Process is in following Steps:

➤ Review

Our auditor conducts inspection of the premises, review of documents, verification of the records and interviews.

➤ Recording

During the electrical safety audit, the auditor records the work practices and business processes of the company. The auditor also notes the details of all electrical installations and electrical equipments of the company.

➤ Audit Report

We prepare and present an audit report based on the findings of our audit team. This report involve details of all electrical hazards, findings, recommendations.

Scope of Electrical Safety Audit

- Identification of Electrical Hazards (shock, fire, explosion etc)
- Review of protection devices & system of the electrical installation
- Review of major cables on sampling basis of capacity and sizing.
- Review of Electrical Preventive Maintenance Program through document review.
- Identification of Hot Spot at Electrical Panels by the state of the art instrument Thermal Image
- Survey of Earthing System (Maintenance Aspects)
- Preparation of electrical safety audit report (Report Mainly consist of Check List, Observations, recommendations/ suggestions according to Risk Category)

Benefits of Electrical Safety Audit

Through Electrical Safety Audits the electrical installations in a facility will be checked and ensured for proper safety. It helps an organization to:

- To identify electrical hazards in advance if any, to prevent the danger of accidents.
- To assess for proper electrical protection method.
- To ensure consistency with Regulatory and Industry safety related procedures.

Post pandemic, our team follows all regional and national guidelines while venturing out for any physical meetings. Meetings are covered through one to one meetings or through participation in webinars and online exhibitions to promote our services. Physical meetings are accompanied by printed materials of brochure and service specific leaflet for reference. We do not promote distribution of printed material to keep our Carbon Footprint as low as possible.

Mandatory and voluntary offset markets

Carbon offsets are currently sold in either mandatory or voluntary markets.

In the mandatory market, buyers operate within the cap-and-trade regime. The Kyoto Protocol to the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC) established a cap-and-trade system that set a total upper limit on emissions and then either allocates or auction off emissions allowances –basically, licenses to pollute a certain amount to, interested buyers. These systems are meant to achieve the greatest emissions reductions at the least cost because emitters with cheap options for reducing their emissions can sell their surplus allowances to emitters with higher reduction costs.

Voluntary market, on the other hand, does not function under a cap-trade system, and neither individuals nor companies are mandated to act. Rather, they choose to offset their emissions out of concern for the environment or to improve the company's image. They enable businesses, governments, NGOs, and individuals to offset their emissions by purchasing offsets that were created either through the CDM or in the voluntary market.

A. BUSINESS AND TRADE RELATED LAWS

Kyoto protocol and carbon credits

The Kyoto Protocol is a protocol to the International Framework Convention on Climate Change with the objective of reducing Green House Gases (GHGs) that cause climate change. The Kyoto Protocol was agreed on December 11, 1997 at the third conference of the parties to the treaty when they met in Kyoto, and entered into force on February 16, 2005. India signed and ratified the Kyoto Protocol in August, 2002. The Kyoto Protocol defines legally binding targets and timetables for reducing the GHG emissions of industrialized countries that ratified the Kyoto Protocol. Governments have been separated into developed nations (who have accepted GHG emission reduction obligations) and developing nations (who have no GHG emission reduction obligations)

The protocol includes Flexible Mechanisms which allow developed nations to meet their GHG emission limit by purchasing GHG emission reductions from elsewhere. These can be bought either from projects which reduce emissions in developing nations under the Clean Development Mechanism (—CDM) or the Joint Implementation scheme or under Emission trading from developed nations with excess allowances.

Pursuant to Article 12 of the Kyoto Protocol, the CDM allows emission-reduction (or emission removal) projects in developing countries to earn certified emission reduction (—CER) credits, each equivalent to one tonne of carbon dioxide. These CERs can be traded and sold, and used by industrialized countries to meet a part of their emission reduction targets under the Kyoto Protocol.

Article 17 of the Kyoto Protocol, allows countries that have emission units to spare – emissions permitted to them but not "used" - to sell this excess capacity to countries that are over their targets. Thus, a new commodity was created in the form of emission reductions or removals. Since carbon dioxide is the principal greenhouse gas, it is known simply as trading in carbon.

The procedure for obtaining certification was laid down in a Decision of the Conference of Parties in 2005 (the apex decision making body under the Kyoto Protocol), and it involves submitting proposals to the ‘Designated National Authority’, which must register the project before it can be submitted to the relevant authority under the executive board of the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change [UNFCCC].

The designated authority in India is the National Clean Development Mechanism Authority, under the Ministry of Environment and Forests. Once a proposal has been approved by the ‘Designated National Authority’, an accredited third party institution, a ‘Designated Operational Entity’, validates the project and submits the proposal to the ‘Executive Board’, which is a body set up under the Kyoto Protocol to monitor CDM projects at the international level.

Paris Agreement

The Paris Agreement is a landmark environmental accord that was adopted in 2016 to address climate change and its negative impacts. India also ratified this agreement in 2016. The agreement aims to substantially reduce global greenhouse gas emissions in an effort to limit the global temperature increase in this century to 2 degrees Celsius above pre-industrial levels, while pursuing means to limit the increase to 1.5 degrees.

The agreement includes commitments from all major emitting countries to cut their climate-altering pollution and to strengthen those commitments over time. The pact provides a pathway for developed nations to assist developing nations in their climate mitigation and adaptation efforts, and it creates a framework for the transparent monitoring, reporting, and racking up of countries' individual and collective climate goals.

The Agreement aims at:

- A requirement for mitigation measures of individual countries to be expressed in nationally determined contributions (NDCs);
- A process that demands a revision of NDCs at least every 5- years representing progression beyond the last NDCs;
- A mechanism for countries to achieve NDCs jointly, sharing mitigation targets, and a mechanism for countries to cooperate in achieving NDCs. Countries can meet their NDC targets by transferring 'mitigation outcomes' internationally – either in the context of emission trading, or to allow results-based payments
- A mechanism for private and public entities to support sustainable development projects that generate transferrable emission reductions;
- A framework for enhanced transparency and an expert review of NDCs;
- A Global Stocktake from 2023 and every 5 years thereafter to review progress;
- Encouragement for Parties to implement existing frameworks for REDD+ including through the provision of results-based payments;
- A global goal of enhancing adaptive capacity, strengthening resilience and reducing vulnerability to climate change, and commitment to providing enhanced support for adaptation;

Article 6 of the Paris Agreement aims at promoting integrated, holistic and balanced approaches that will assist governments in implementing their NDCs through voluntary international cooperation.

Article 6.2 allows countries to strike bilateral and voluntary agreements to trade carbon units.

Article 6.4 creates a centralised governance system for countries and the private sector to trade emissions reduction anywhere in the world. This system known as the Sustainable Development Mechanism (SDM) is due to replace the Clean Development Mechanism (CDM), established under the Kyoto Protocol.

Finally, Article 6.8 develops a framework for cooperation between countries to reduce emissions outside market mechanisms, such as aid.

Under the Paris Agreement, a share of proceeds from the markets needs to be deployed to help developing countries adapt to climate impacts. Whether this applies to the centralised SDM market only or to all trading, including from bilateral agreements has not yet been agreed.

Under this mechanism, countries with low emissions would be allowed to sell their exceeding allowance to larger emitters, with an overall cap of greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions, ensuring their net reduction. Supply and demand for emissions allowances would lead to the establishment of a global carbon price that would tie the negative externalities of GHG emissions to polluters. In other words, by paying a price on carbon, states exceeding their NDCs would bear the costs of global warming.

Kyoto Protocol Vs Paris Agreement

Unlike the Kyoto Protocol, which established legally binding emissions reduction targets (as well as penalties for noncompliance) for developed nations only, the Paris Agreement requires that all countries—rich, poor, developed, and developing—do their part and slash greenhouse gas emissions. To that end, greater flexibility is built into the Paris Agreement: No language is included on the commitments countries should make, nations can voluntarily set their emissions targets (NDCs), and countries incur no penalties for falling short of their proposed targets.

Securities Contract Exchange Act, 1956

Securities Contracts Regulation Act, 1956 (SCRA) provides for the legal framework for commodity derivatives trading and Security Exchange Board of India as the oversight regulator. The Central Government brought amendments in the Securities Contracts (Regulation) Act, 1956 (SCRA) to include commodity derivative under the definition of derivatives and included Section 2(bc) definition of Commodity Derivative. Further, Central Government vide Notification No. S.O.3068(E) dated September 27, 2016 notified carbon credits as goods for the purposes of clause (bc) of section 2 of SCRA. i.e. to be treated as commodity derivative which is not a security.

HACCP Certification [Hazard Analysis And Critical Control Point Certification]

Recognizing the importance of HACCP to food control, the 20th session of Codex Alimentarius Commission held in Geneva Switzerland adopted Guidelines for the application of Hazard Analysis Critical Control Point (HACCP).

The Codex Alimentarius General Principles of Food Hygiene lay a firm foundation for ensuring effective food control and food hygiene. The General Principles of food hygiene follow the food chain from primary production to the consumer, highlighting the key hygiene controls at each stage. Codex has established HACCP based approach to ensure food safety as a benchmark in the International Food Trade.

The HACCP System, as it applies to food safety management, uses the approach of controlling critical points in food handling to prevent food safety problems. The HACCP system identifies specific hazards and control measures to ensure the safety of food. A HACCP plan is specific to the particular food and processing application. The HACCP system is capable of accommodating changes such as advances in equipment design, new information concerning health hazards or risks, new processing procedures or technological developments.

ISO 9001:2008 and ISO 9001: 2015-Quality Management System

ISO 9000 is a series of standards, developed and published by the International Organization for Standardization, that define, establish, and maintain a quality assurance system for manufacturing and service industries. ISO 9001 deals with the requirements that organizations wishing to meet the standard must fulfil. Third-party certification bodies provide independent confirmation that organizations meet the requirements of ISO 9001.

ISO 9001:2008 specifies the requirements for a quality management system where an organization:

- Needs to demonstrate its ability to consistently provide product that meets customer and applicable regulatory requirements, and
- Aims to enhance customer satisfaction through the effective application of the system, including processes for continual improvement of the system and the assurance of conformity to customer and applicable regulatory requirements.

ISO 9001:2015 specifies requirements for a quality management system when an organization:

- needs to demonstrate its ability to consistently provide products and services that meet customer and applicable statutory and regulatory requirements, and
- Aims to enhance customer satisfaction through the effective application of the system, including processes for improvement of the system and the assurance of conformity to customer and applicable statutory and regulatory requirements.

IGST complicates tax collection for State Governments by disabling them to collect the tax owed to them directly from the Central Government. Under the previous system, a state would have to only deal with a single government in order to collect tax revenue.

Following laws which have been subsumed in GST Acts were applicable to the Company till 30th June 2017 and shall remain applicable here after as stated in the GST ACTS:

I. SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

A) BASIS OF PREPARATION OF FINANCIAL STATEMENT

The Restated Summary Statement of Assets and Liabilities of the Company as on 30 September 2020, 31 March 2020, 31 March 2019 and 31 March 2018 and the Restated Summary Statement of Profit and Loss and Restated Summary Statements of Cash Flows for the same period mentioned above and the annexure thereto (collectively, the “Restated Financial Statements” or “Restated Summary Statements”) have been extracted by the management from the Financial Statements of the Company for the period ended on 30 September 2020, 31 March 2020, 31 March 2019 and 31 March 2018.

These financial statements are prepared in accordance with Indian Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (GAAP) under the historical cost convention on the accrual basis. GAAP comprises mandatory accounting standards as prescribed under Section 133 of the Companies Act, 2013 (“the Act”) read with Rule 7 of the Companies (Accounts) Rules, 2014, the provisions of the Act. The accounting policies adopted in the preparation of financial statements have been consistently applied. All assets and liabilities have been classified as current or non-current as per the company’s normal operating cycle and other criteria set out in the Schedule III to the Companies Act, 2013. Based on the nature of operations and time difference between the provision of services and realization of cash and cash equivalents, the company has ascertained its operating cycle as 12 months for the purpose of current and non-current classification of assets and liabilities.

B) USE OF ESTIMATES

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with Indian GAAP requires judgments, estimates and assumptions to be made that affect the reported amount of assets and liabilities, disclosure of contingent liabilities on the date of the financial statements and the reported amount of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Although, these estimates are based upon management’s best knowledge of current event and actions, uncertainty about these assumptions and estimates could result in the outcomes requiring a material adjustment to the carrying amounts of assets or liabilities in future periods. Difference between the actual results and estimates are recognized in the period in which the results are known / materialized.

C) ACCOUNTING CONVENTION

The company follows the mercantile system of accounting, recognizing income and expenditure on accrual basis. The accounts are prepared on historical cost basis and as a going concern. Accounting policies not referred to specifically otherwise, are consistent with the generally accepted accounting principles. In case of bank guarantee charges, amount paid during the year has been recognized as expense and amount of such charges paid, pertaining to future period have not been booked as a prepaid expense.

The following significant accounting policies are adopted in the preparation and presentation of these financial statements:

1) REVENUE RECOGNITION

Revenue is recognized to the extent that it is probable that the economic benefits will flow to the Company and the revenue can be reliably measured.

Income from Sale

Revenue is recognized when the significant risks and rewards of ownership of the products have been passed to the buyer. Sales are disclosed net of indirect taxes, trade discounts and returns, as applicable.

Income from services

Revenue from service contract is recognized as per the terms of contracts with the customers, as the service is performed, when the final act takes place, the service becomes chargeable, and there is no uncertainty regarding consideration and its ultimate collection. Period based services are accrued and recognized pro-rata over the contractual period.

Interest Income

Interest income is recognized on a time proportion basis taking into account the amount outstanding and the rate applicable.

2) PROPERTY, PLANT & EQUIPMENT

- a) Property, Plant and Equipment are stated at cost, net of recoverable taxes, trade discount and rebates less accumulated depreciation and impairment losses, if any. Such cost includes purchase price, borrowing cost and any cost directly attributable to bringing the assets to its working condition for its intended use, net charges on foreign exchange contracts and adjustments arising from exchange rate variations attributable to the assets, if any.
- b) Subsequent costs are included in the asset's carrying amount or recognized as a separate asset, as appropriate, only when it is probable that future economic benefits associated with the item will flow to the entity and the cost can be measured reliably. Property, Plant and Equipment which are significant to the total cost of that item of Property, Plant and Equipment and having different useful life are accounted separately. Repairs & maintenance costs are recognized in the Statement of profit & Loss when incurred.
- c) The cost and related accumulated depreciated are eliminated from the financial statements upon sale or retirement of the asset and the resultant gains or losses are recognized in the Statement of Profit or Loss. Assets to be disposed of are reported at the lower of the carrying value or the fair value less cost to sell.
- d) Depreciable amount for assets is the cost of an asset, or other amount substituted for cost, less its estimated residual value. Depreciation on tangible fixed assets has been provided on the written down value method as per the useful life prescribed in Schedule II to the Companies Act, 2013. Intangible assets are amortized over their estimated useful life prescribed in schedule II to the Companies Act 2013 on straight line method.
- e) The residual values, useful lives and methods of depreciation of Property, Plant and Equipment are reviewed at each financial year end and adjusted prospectively, if appropriate.

3) IMPAIRMENT

The Management periodically assesses, using external and internal sources, whether there is an indication that an asset may be impaired. An impairment loss is recognized wherever the carrying value of an asset exceeds its recoverable amount. The recoverable amount is higher of the asset's net selling price and value in use, which means the present value of future cash flows expected to arise from the continuing use of the asset and its eventual disposal. An impairment loss for an asset is reversed if, and only if, the reversal can be related objectively to an event occurring after the impairment loss was recognized. The carrying amount of an asset is increased to its revised recoverable amount, provided that this amount does not exceed the carrying amount that would have been determined (net of any accumulated amortization or depreciation) had no impairment loss been recognized for the asset in prior years.

4) INVENTORIES

The Company does not maintain any Inventory due to the nature of business operations it is involved in.

5) RETIREMENT BENEFITS & OTHER EMPLOYEE BENEFITS

Short term employee benefits

Short term employee benefits are recognized as an expense at the undiscounted amount in the statement of profit & loss for the year in which related service is rendered.

Long term employee benefits

The eligible employees of the company are entitled to receive post-employment benefits in respect of gratuity in accordance with Payment of Gratuity Act, 1972. The company has made provision for the same in the restated financial statements for the period / years ended on 30 September 2020, 31 March 2020, 31 March 2019 and 31 March 2018 on the basis of actuarial valuation of liability. However, the requirements of AS-15, Accounting for Employee Benefits, of either setting up a fund for the same or contributing to an outside fund has not been complied with.

6) FOREIGN EXCHANGE TRANSACTIONS

Foreign-currency denominated monetary assets and liabilities if any are translated at exchange rates in effect at the Balance Sheet date. The gains or losses resulting from the transactions relating to purchase & sale of current assets are included in the Statement of Profit and Loss, however the gains or losses if any resulting from purchase of Fixed Assets are reduced or added to the cost of the relevant fixed assets as the case may be. Revenue, expense, and cash-flow items denominated in foreign currencies are translated using the exchange rate in effect on the date of the transaction.

7) CASH FLOW STATEMENT

Cash flows are reported using the indirect method, whereby profit before tax is adjusted for the effects of transactions of a non- cash nature, any deferrals or accruals of past or future operating cash receipts or payments and item of income or expenses associated with investing or financing cash flows. The cash flows from operating, investing, and financing activities are segregated.

8) BORROWING COSTS

Borrowing costs that are directly attributable to the acquisition or construction of a qualifying asset are capitalized as part of the cost of that asset till such time the asset is ready for its intended use. A qualifying asset is an asset that necessarily takes a substantial period of time to get ready for its intended use. Costs incurred in raising funds are amortized equally over the period for which the funds are acquired. All other borrowing costs are charged to profit and loss account.

9) INCOME TAX

The accounting treatment for the Income Tax in respect of the Company's income is based on the Accounting Standard on 'Accounting for Taxes on Income' (AS-22). The provision made for Income Tax in Accounts comprises both, the current tax and deferred tax.

Current Tax

Provision for current tax is made for income tax liability estimated to arise based on the results for the year at current rate of tax in accordance with the Income Tax Act, 1961.

Deferred tax

Deferred tax charge or credit reflects the tax effects of timing difference between accounting income and taxable income for the period. The deferred tax charge or credit and the corresponding deferred tax liabilities or assets are recognized using the tax rates that have been substantially enacted by the balance sheet date. Deferred tax assets are recognized only to the extent there is reasonable certainty that the assets can be realized in future, however, where there is unabsorbed depreciation or carry forward of losses, deferred tax assets are recognized only if there is a virtual certainty of realization of such assets.

Deferred tax assets are reviewed at each balance sheet date and are adjusted to reflect the amount that is reasonably certain or virtually certain (as the case may be) to be realized.

10) EARNINGS PER SHARE

Basic earnings per share is computed in accordance with AS 20 "Earning Per Share", by dividing the net profit after tax by the weighted average number of equity shares outstanding during the period. In case of Bonus Issue, number of equity share outstanding is adjusted for proportionate change in the number of equity shares outstanding as if the event had occurred at the beginning of the earliest period reported. Diluted earnings per share is computed by dividing the profit after tax by the weighted average number of equity shares considered for deriving basic earnings per share and also the weighted average number of equity shares that could have been issued upon conversion of all dilutive potential equity shares.

The diluted potential equity shares are adjusted for the proceeds receivable had the shares been actually issued at fair value which is the average market value of the outstanding shares. Dilutive potential equity shares are deemed converted as of the beginning of the period, unless issued at a later date. Dilutive potential equity shares are determined independently for each period presented.

11) PROVISIONS AND CONTINGENT LIABILITIES

A provision is recognized if, as a result of a past event, the Company has a present legal obligation that is reasonably estimable, and it is probable that an outflow of economic benefits will be required to settle the obligation. Provisions are determined by the best estimate of the likely future outflow of economic benefits required to settle the obligation at the reporting date.

Where no reliable estimate can be made, a disclosure is made as contingent liability. A disclosure for a contingent liability is also made when there is a possible obligation or a present obligation that may, but probably will not, require an outflow of resources. Where there is a possible obligation or a present obligation in respect of which the likelihood of outflow of resources is remote, no provision or disclosure is made.

12) CASH & CASH EQUIVALENTS

Cash and cash equivalents comprise cash and cash on deposit with banks. The Company considers all highly liquid investments with a remaining maturity at the date of purchase of three months or less and that are readily convertible to known amounts of cash to be cash equivalents.

13) SEGMENT REPORTING

Segment Reporting as required by Accounting Standard 17 issued by the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India, as prescribed under section 133 of the Companies Act, 2013 ("the 2013 Act"), read with rule 7 of the Companies' (Accounts) Rules 2014 have been provided in the Note-AA of the enclosed restated financial statements.

14) EMPLOYEE BENEFITS

Short term employee benefits

Short term employee benefits are recognized as an expense at the undiscounted amount in the statement of profit & loss for the year in which related service is rendered.

Long term employee benefits

The eligible employees of the company are entitled to receive post-employment benefits in respect of gratuity in accordance with Payment of Gratuity Act, 1972. The company has made provision for the same in the restated financial statements for the period / years ended on 30 September 2020, 31 March 2020, 31 March 2019, and 31 March 2018 on the basis of actuarial valuation of liability. The time duration from public issue closure to listing would continue to be six Working Days.

Phase II: This phase commenced on completion of Phase I and will continue till March 31, 2020. Phase III: Subsequently, the time duration from public issue closure to listing would be reduced to be three Working Days.

All SCSBs offering facility of making application in public issues shall also provide facility to make application using the UPI Mechanism.
